Brave bettors 'buzz' hair for worthy cause

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

What was originally an unusual bar bet among guys turned into an unusual fundraiser for a worthy cause.

As part of "Buzz Cuts '96," 10 middle-aged guys with full heads of hair left the Sand Bar in Antioch Feb. 17 with little or, in some cases, no hair.

What is even more intriguing is that a female got into the action and got her hair buzzed, too.

In the end, a hair-cut bet turned into more than $2,100 raised for the Lake County Community Youth Network which assists abused and neglected children.

"It sounds crazy, but it was all for a good cause," said Kim Stafford, a bartender at the Sand Bar who was talked into taking her turn under the clippers.

Those getting buzz cuts, military-style hair cuts or even Kojak-style cuts clean to the scalp included Darin Vales, Jack Wells, Dave Nelson, Terry Heiden, Joe Samsone, Dino Samsone, Bill Cardiss, Dennis Brady, Ron Witke, Rich Lapinski, and Stafford, the brave female of the bunch.

Three others who worked up enough courage at the last minute included Bill Giovanni, John Prudick and Kenny Prudick.

The idea sparked from a bet between Vales, Wells, Nelson and Heiden. All started collecting bets from people who challenged them to get buzz cuts.

"It started out as a bet that they wouldn't get their hair cut. People started betting them, and they thought as long as they were going to do it, they would do something good with the money," Stafford said.

Vales, Wells, Nelson and Heiden started collecting pledges or sponsors to get their hair cut. Eventually, word spread and others got involved.

Dino Samsone, for example, raised $800 by encouraging his co-workers at Pewaukee Airport in Wheeling to sponsor his hair-cut.

"He was the big contributor," Stafford said.

She added, "We were surprised we raised that much money."

The three barbers who held the bettors true to their word included Susan Schwabe of Hair Designs Unlimited in Antioch, Michelle "Bubbles" Weber of Great Clips in Arlington Heights, and Jeri Witke, one of the owners of Sand Bar.

Afterwards, rakes were used to gather all the hair. The hair half-filled a 35-gallon garbage can.

"We laughed all day," Stafford said. "It was for a good cause, and it will grow back—I hope."

Maybe the sign outside the Sand Bar should read "Only at the Sand Bar" instead of "Y Not at the Sand Bar."

Darin Vales, Ron Witke, Terry Heiden and Dave Nelson, all from Antioch, have a few laughs before the buzz cuts begin at the Sand Bar. ## Martini advises residents to study Route 83 expansion

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

Antioch residents and business owners along the Rte. 83 corridor from Rte. 173 to Petite Lake Rd. can expect a major four-lane thoroughfare sometime in the future.

As the Illinois Department of Transportation (IDOT) begins its Year 2010 plans to expand Rte. 83 to four lanes from Rte. 132 in Lake Villa to Rte. 173, Antioch County Board member Judy Martini is advising residents to voice any concerns now during the public hearing process.

"I plan on blitzing the homeowners and businesses along Rte. 83 so they are aware of what the state is doing," Martini said. "The time is now to get their comments."

IDOT is accepting public comment on the proposed project until Feb. 29.

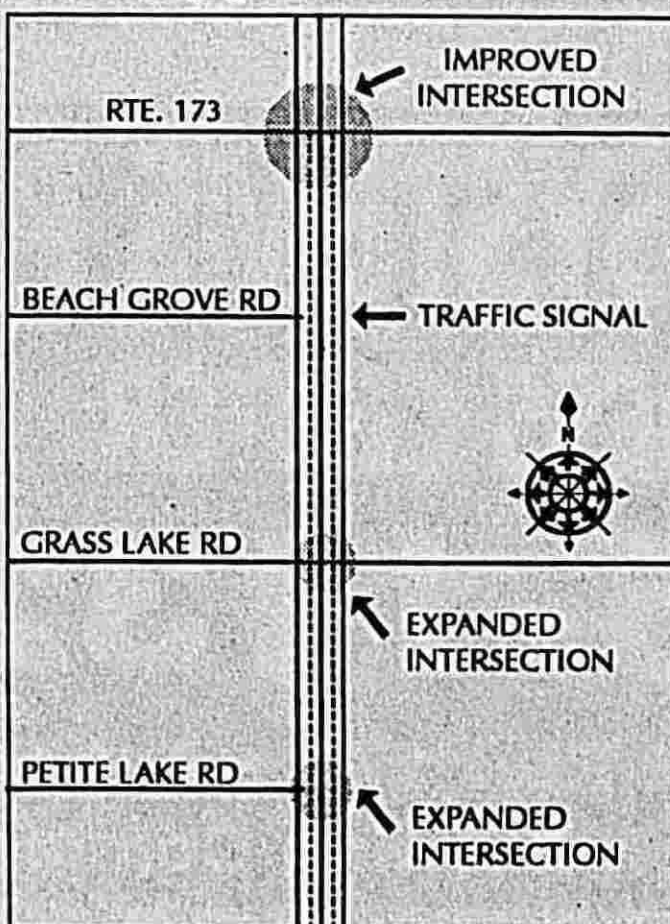

Some of the major recommendations along the route in the Antioch area include:

- Two lanes going in both directions and a median barrier to separate the lanes;
- An improved intersection at Rte. 83 and Rte. 173 which will include a left-turn lane, a through lane and a right turn on all four legs of the intersection.
- An traffic signal at Beach Grove Road and Rte. 83;
- A realignment of Grimm Road to intersect with Briar Terrace and a traffic light there;
- Expanded intersections at Grass Lake

Rd. and Rte. 83 as well as at Petite Lake Rd. and Rte. 83.

Martini said she was concerned about the median barrier to separate the two lanes of traffic on Rte. 83.

"I do have some concerns about the concrete barrier because residents will have to make some U-turns to get to their homes See RTE.83 page A10

Lindblads will celebrate 114 years of marriage

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

When it comes to marriage, the Lindblads tie a firm knot.

The Lindblad family of Antioch is cordially inviting friends in the community to celebrate 114 years of wedded bliss during an open house March 3 from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Best Western Regency Inn on Routes 173 and 83.

Led by the golden anniversary celebration of Bob and Dorothy Lindblad, their three daughters also boast two silver anniversaries as well as a 14-year anniversary.

Bob and Dorothy were married 50 years Jan. 11. Wendy and Richard Maston celebrated 25 years Feb. 12 while Sue and Marshall Bickel will also celebrate their silver anniversary March 27. Robin and Tom Kessell are still the young couple with a 14-year anniversary coming March 27.

"We've been lucky," Bob Lindblad said with a proud smile. With three daughters and three successful marriages, he said he is looking forward to continuing the strong marriage tradition with his seven See CELEBRATE page A10

Stahl Sign Co. continues success in Antioch

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

From corporate signs to small individual signs, Fred Stahl has virtually made a living helping others identify their business, service or event.

The Fred Stahl Sign Company has been a stronghold in downtown Antioch since 1982, when Stahl relocated his father's business here from Chicago.

Even in Antioch, Stahl has maintained corporate accounts with AT&T and Ameritech as well as government accounts with the Chicago Housing Authority. In fact, he just completed a U.S. Army job at three buildings at the former Fort Sheridan.

He has since provided the signage for boat shows sponsored by Sequoia Harbor as well as signage for Quaker Industries and other local businesses.

"There's a constant flow of business from the locality," Stahl said. "What I lost in the city, I've gained up here."

His father established the family sign business in Chicago in 1929, and Stahl began managing the company in 1952.

Having owned some property in Antioch, Stahl eventually built his home in Antioch and commuted to his business on Elston and Lawrence in Chicago.

"I got tired of the commute, so I moved the business here," Stahl admitted.

He said he was attracted to Antioch's small-town atmosphere that many of the Chicago neighborhoods once boasted.

"It reminds me of what Chicago was like 40 to 50 years ago," Stahl said of Antioch. "It's a nice community, it's friendly, but it is growing too fast."

He noted, however, that things were not always rosy when he first moved his business to downtown Antioch. Downtown has experienced a facelift since the early to mid '80s.

"There were a lot of vacancies when I first moved," Stahl said. "The downtown area has improved a lot, and now we have a train coming."

Stahl has also contributed to the betterment of downtown by being a member of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce. The former board member of the chamber still volunteers to play Santa Claus at Santa's Castle during Christmas.

"I've made a lot of business contacts by meeting people through the chamber," said Stahl, a 10-year chamber member. "It really has become a successful organization, and I'm glad to be a part of it."

From massive billboards to small magnetic signs for politicians, Stahl keeps with the latest in technology by moving from hand lettering to computerized engraved signs.

But he notes that people still ask for hand-engraved signs.

"Things keep changing, and yet things remain the same," Stahl said.

Deep Lake Rd., North Ave. becomes four-way stop

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

A dangerous intersection in unincorporated Antioch got a little bit safer.

At the strong urging of the Village of Antioch, the Lake County Department of Transportation converted the intersection of Deep Lake Road and North Avenue into a full four-way stop. Previously, it was a two-way stop.

"We're very pleased the county followed through on this request so quickly," said Mayor Marilyn Shineflug, who said the village asked county transportation officials to study the intersection last fall.

For motorists traveling east on North Avenue, the intersection approached quickly after strong curves. For motorists traveling north on Deep Lake Road, the intersection approached quickly after a hill.

Motorists traveling on Deep Lake Road were only required to stop before the four-way conversion.

Transportation officials said Deep Lake Road motorists waiting at the stop sign were blinded by a curve of traffic coming on North Avenue.

"Even though it's not in our jurisdiction, it is a general safety issue for our residents," Shineflug said. The intersection is actually patrolled by officers of the Lake County Sheriff's Department.

To further increase the visibility of the intersection, transportation officials said they will install a flashing light when the weather and ground conditions permit.

'Parents' Day Out' gives parents time from children

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

Attention moms and Mr. Moms!

Want to go grocery shopping or to the doctor's office without having your young children getting loose in the cereal aisle or tearing out pages of magazines in the doctor's office?

A "Parents' Day Out" may be just what you need.

Housed at Antioch United Methodist Church on Main Street, Parents Day Out is a service that offers daycare for young children from 6 months to 6 years old while mom or dad can run errands or just enjoy an afternoon break free from children.

"Parents' Day Out is a specialty of United Methodist Church," noted PDO Director Shelly Bird.

Although Parents' Day Out offers temporary daycare services, it is not a full-fledged daycare operation five days a week. United Methodist Church already offers preschool and daycare through its Peppermint Stick School.

"The idea is to give a community affordable daycare for parents who are working and a parents day out for parents who are not working," Bird said.

As Bird noted, Parents Day Out is a unique service for the at-home parent.

"You don't ever have to go grocery shopping with your kids again," Bird pointed out.

Parents Day Out offers winter sessions on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Cost is $10 per day.

With four teachers on hand, Parents Day Out separates children from 6 months to 3 years old in one room and children from 3 to 6 in another room. The younger children are engaged in crafts and playtime; whereas, the older children practice their ABCs, writing, numbers and do more advanced crafts.

"Everyday, they do some kind of craft," Bird said.

She also noted that another feature of the program is its flexibility. Bird said parents can call and make reservations or walk in that day, provided there is space.

"If you can't make an appointment, you can call and change your day," Bird said. "We really try to work with parents."

Parents, however, are limited to dropping off their children to twice a week or 10 hours a week.

In addition to Antioch, Parents Day Out attracts parents from Lake Villa, Lindenhurst, Gurnee and southern Wisconsin.

For more information about Parents Day Out, call 395-1362.

Dist. 34 employee faces theft charge

KEVIN HANRAHAN

Staff Reporter

An employee with Antioch School District 34 is scheduled for arraignment March 6 in front of Circuit Judge Raymond McKoski.

According to Mary Schostock of the Lake County State's Attorney's Office, Larry Schumacher, the former director of buildings, grounds and transportation at Dist. 34, faces charges of theft and official misconduct.

The Dist. 34 board of education urged Schumacher to resign his position in November last year after an internal investigation showed Schumacher misappropriated property. Dist. 34 deferred the matter to Lake County State's Attorney's investigators to pursue possible criminal charges.

Schostock said the theft charge was "in excess of $10,000 but not exceeding $100,000." She said the investigation included scrutinizing records over the last five years.

She said the investigation revealed Schumacher purchased equipment through school funds and used the equipment for personal use. She also said Schumacher allegedly sold school equipment for personal gain. She would not reveal an exact dollar amount at this time.

"We took a lot of time to investigate this before we came up with charges, and we will continue to follow leads," Schostock said.

Schumacher waived a preliminary hearing Feb. 15 before Judge James Booras. Schostock expects Schumacher to plead not guilty at the arraignment March 6.

"He will plead not guilty because they always do," Schostock said.

In addition, Schostock said the state's attorney office will be seeking restitution for Schumacher to reimburse the school district. An investigation is still ongoing to determine a restitution figure.

"Restitution will certainly be a part of the negotiations of any plea or any sentencing," Schostock said.

She also noted that this was the only case being handled by the state's attorney at Dist. 34.

"This is the only investigation we're doing. If there are any other matters, it has nothing to do with me," Schostock said. "As far as I know, the only case our office is handling is the Schumacher case."

We suggest you wear those bibs

Instead of sitting home Saturday night watching reruns of Baywatch, why not round up the family and head on over to the Annual Ribs & Bibs dinner, hosted by the St. Peter Athletic Program. You will feast on ribs, baked potato, beans, apple sauce, and rolls.

Bibs will also be provided to prevent you from dripping their fine barbecue sauce on your attire. Dinner will be served on Saturday, Feb. 24, at St. Peter's School, from 5 to 8 p.m. and tickets are $8 for adults and $4.50 for children 12 and under.

Seeing that this is the primary fund raiser for the Athletic Program, they are hoping for your support. The funds raised will be used towards purchasing new sports equipment. So, if you didn't score too many points with mom on Valentine's Day, offering to take her out to dinner may be just the ticket you need to redeem yourself.

Heed my warning

Kids have a tendency to have selective hearing when moms start issuing warnings about wearing hats or clean underwear or waiting an hour after eating before swimming. As moms, we write this off as being defiant and go about our business. Well, when one old friend tries to warn another old friend of imminent danger and the friend, disregarding the warning, practically renders herself incapacitated, we write that off as a fond memory. Such as the case at the "Old Retired Lizards" house during a recent Line Dancing expo.

A group of ladies arrived to hone up their dance steps, Old Liz suggested everyone take their wet shoes off before heading down the wooden stairs to the awaiting ballroom. She also proposed holding onto the banister was a good idea as the stairs did have a tendency to be a bit slippery.

Well, we all have that one certain someone who thinks no bad will ever become of them, who refuses to heed any advice, even if it comes directly from Dear Abby herself. As you guessed, half way down the stairs, old "wet-footed, didn't take my shoes off" friend began bouncing down the steps in a very unbecoming fashion.

Luckily, she had enough sense to be holding the railing, which was the only thing that stopped her from spoiling the awaiting dance floor at the bottom of the steps with her unattached body parts. Now, also at the bottom of the steps, standing like a lone bowling pin, waiting to be knocked senseless by this know-all friend, was a wide-eyed Old Liz.

After the whole scene had played out before her like a Three Stooges routine, Old Liz contained her initial instinct, made certain her feeble friend was physically unharmed, then let loose with an abundance of laughter. A serious injury was avoided, a fond memory was created. Old Liz delighted in the fact that her friend of 21 years was just as clumsy as Old Liz herself.

The Line Dance Follies continued and as the evening concluded, this friend, the one with the bruised ego and other body parts, sarcastically dripped, "I don't want to see my name in Jingle from Pringle." Being a loyal friend, Old Liz would not reveal a name. She could only hope that the daughter of this friend, who is a kindergarten teacher, would never seek advice from her mom on how to get her class to listen to direction—certainly the woman herself needs instructions on following directions.

To this unnamed lady friend, I say: I personally feel it is my duty as an unbiased journalist to offer equal, if not more extensive, coverage for paybacks. I know that you and Old Liz go way back, share children of the same age, have gone through thick and thin together, but you certainly have just cause here to do a little mud-slinging using your dear old friend as target practice. You have my number, I hope to hear from you soon!

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle"—don't forget to call 395-6364.

DUI simulator to hit Antioch High

School to debut first 'Wellness Fair'

KEVIN HANRAHAN

Staff Reporter

Motorists driving drunk will be on the loose at Antioch Community High School.

ACHS students will step outside the classroom for a hands-on lesson in the dangers of drinking and driving when the Neon Drunk Driving Simulator makes its debut in Lake County at ACHS April 8.

"We're excited that it's going to be here. It's going to be a great learning experience," said Steve Wapon, who heads the school's physical education department.

Both ACHS and the Northern Illinois Council on Alcoholism and Substance Abuse (NICASA) will be co-sponsoring the event as well as a Wellness Fair that will be going on at the same time.

The simulator will be a Dodge Neon car equipped with a computer that can simulate the delayed reactions of alcohol impaired drivers by delaying the car's braking and steering reaction times.

Selected students with driver's licenses and passengers will be allowed to experience riding with an impaired driver in the school's parking lot. Each driver will drive the car after a hypothetical number of drinks.

"It gives the sober driver an idea of what it is like to lose your physical abilities after a few drinks," Wapon said. "It should be an eye-opener for a lot of young people."

Laurel Dahl, prevention coordinator at NICASA, said the event will serve as an educational and prevention opportunity for students. NICASA is an agency that deals with substance abuse as well as motorists who have violated driving under the influence laws.

"We want to help kids understand the seriousness of drinking and driving, and the car is going to give students an idea of what it's going to feel like driving while impaired," Dahl said.

The Neon Drunk Driving Simulator program will be visiting approximately 130 high schools across the country this year.

"We happened to luck out," said Dahl, a former member of the ACHS board of education. "They happened to have a day open, and we secured the opportunity to grab the car. It's the first time that I know of that it will be at a Lake County school." Cost to bring the simulator to ACHS is estimated at $4,000. Wapon said the school is seeking financial assistance from interested organizations, businesses and individuals.

The drunk driving simulator will also be on hand during the same day the school kicks off its first "Wellness Fair" which will run from 7:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the school's north gym.

Wapon said the program will feature informational booths, exhibits and demonstrations related to health, community services, sports and recreation.

"What we hope to do is not only focus on safe driving but really expand on healthy living," Wapon said. "It's the first time we've attempted anything like this of this magnitude. It's going to be a lot of fun."

Admission into the Wellness Fair is free, and it will be open to the public.

"We just want to see our kids healthy, happy and alive," Dahl said.

Waterway chairman declines pay

While the Chairman of the Fox Waterway Agency cast the deciding vote for board members to receive a 'token' salary for attending meetings, he himself refused any and all pay.

"I thought them deserving of the money," said Agency Chairman Dr. William C. Dam. "It's like a token gift. [With it] they can take their wives out to dinner once in a while."

Directors will now be paid up to $100 a month, no more than $3,000 a year. The chairman would have also received up to $5,000 a year, but "I refuse to take any money," said Dr. Dam.

During the Agency meeting Dam requested that the chairman be excluded from the motion to pay board members, made by Director Bob Lindquist.

Karen Kabbes, agency executive director, said Dr. Dam works hard along with all the directors. The chairman attends several scheduled evening and afternoon meetings, as well as at least a half day of his own time at other related engagements. —by TINA L. SWIECH

Waterway Agency hires new employee

The latest addition to the Fox Waterway Agency staff says she likes the Chain O' Lakes area and her new job.

"Having started work here has given me a sense of belonging to the community," explained Barbara Claypool, a Wisconsin native.

Claypool was hired as full-time administrative assistant working under Executive Director Karen Kabbes. She is also the Agency Advisory Board recording secretary.

Claypool said she's happy to be a part of the environmental issues dealt with at the organization, since they are also concerns with her.

Originally from Appleton, Claypool has moved to the Fox Lake area, just seconds from the Agency location on Route 12.

Among her jobs, Claypool is responsible as the clerk taking notes at each board meeting and copying them into minutes.

She is also the staff liaison to the newly formed Agency tourism committee.

Her job entails handling customer concerns — everything from user fees to debris in the channels are answered by Claypool.

Talking bird to be raffled during benefit dinner

KEVIN HANRAHAN

Staff Reporter

The list of raffle items continues to grow as the spaghetti dinner in support of leukemia-stricken Rachael Lugo gets closer.

The 6-year-old who attended Antioch Lower Grade was diagnosed with leukemia in December and has been braving chemotherapy treatments at Children's Hospital in Milwaukee. Various benefits have been held in order to assist the Lugo family with travel and medical costs.

A spaghetti dinner and raffle is being planned at Antioch Community High School, March 3, from noon to 7:30 p.m.

More than 15 local businesses have contributed gift certificates for the raffle.

"The businesses are being great in really pouring out the help," noted Becky Stolfi, who is coordinating the dinner and raffle.

Some of the businesses contributing gift certificates include Toys R Us, Super K-Mart, Ace Hardware, Ben Franklin, True Value Hardware, Antioch Theater, Antioch Schwinn Bike Shop as well as various hair salons and restaurants.

Stolfi, who breeds exotic birds, is also contributing a Cockatiel bird with cage and accessories.

"They sit on your shoulder and give you kisses," said Stolfi, describing the bird which reaches the size of a robin.

"They have the ability to talk. They can be a lot of fun," Stolfi said.

Volunteers will be selling raffle tickets and dinner tickets Feb 22 and 29 from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the Commons at Antioch High School.

Raffle tickets are $1. Spaghetti dinner tickets are $5.95 for adults and $3.95 for children. The American Lutheran Association will be matching dollar for dollar raised during the dinner.

Tickets are also available on an ongoing basis at the First National Bank of Antioch, Quilter's Dream and Barbie's BBQ on Route 173. In addition, First National Bank has established a "Friendship Fund" for people or businesses that wish to make personal contributions. For more information, call 740-1351.

Emmons School prepares to blast off to the stars

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

Let the countdown begin.
Fourth- and fifth-graders at Emmons School are eagerly waiting to blast off as part of the 1996 Space Mission, "Look Out Mars... We're Going to the Stars."

For the sixth consecutive year, Emmons fourth- and fifth-graders have been preparing their simulated flight into space. Public tours of mission control will be Feb. 28 and 29 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. A press conference with various speakers is planned for March 1 at 1:30 p.m.

At one time, 33 schools in Lake County participated in the space mission exercise, but Emmons is now one of the three remaining schools that continue to blast off into space for a two-day orbit.

"It does take a lot of extra time outside of the classroom to prepare for this," noted Amy Winters, publicist for the space mission. "The kids start working on this in October, but we get a lot of teacher help and parent help. It's very educational."

Complete with mission control, a cockpit and a space station, Emmons will send student astronauts into space simulating a shuttle flight and life aboard a space station. Throughout the mission, student astronauts will conduct experiments and monitor their vital signs.

In addition to the select few chosen as astronauts, students have accepted many other job titles and responsibilities during the two-day orbit. From commanders and medical specialists to weather trackers and environmental specialists, students trained for various positions at mission control, in the cockpit and on the space station.

Students will communicate with each other via radio and computers staffed by students.

As a sort of ceremonial kickoff, Superintendent Matt Tabar was found dropping packages containing eggs from the school's roof.

In preparation for the space mission, students had to design and build a container that would allow the egg to survive the impact of the ground, much like space shuttles or capsules have to survive atmospheric pressure as they enter the Earth's atmosphere.

"Most of them did," Winters reported of the survival rate of the eggs. "The egg drop was a big success for the kids."

In addition, students have been studying different star constellations through a student observatory.

And now, the countdown begins.

"I can't tell you how hard these kids, as well as the teachers and parents, have worked preparing for the space mission," Winters said.

10, 9, 8...

grandchildren.

"I have a daughter who is getting married, so we're already planning for 25 years from now," quipped Wendy Maston (Lindblad).

In a sense, Bob and Dorothy Lindblad have also been married to Antioch for nearly a half century as well.

"We've lived here all but one year of our married life," Lindblad said. Sue, Wendy and Robin all graduated from Antioch Community High School, where Bob Lindblad was a board member for 23 years and board president for 14 years. Lindblad holds the distinction of handing out more than 5,000 diplomas to graduates of Antioch Community High School.

Lindblad earned his living in Antioch by being the accountant at the various car dealerships in town. He started at the old Studebaker lot, then moved to the Pontiac dealership before it became Pittman Pontiac, and he finished off his career at Raymond Chevrolet.

"Now, I'm retired and I'm going to do nothing but play golf," Lindblad said.

He will still earn a $1 a year by helping out with the books at his daughters' business, Quilters Dream, in downtown Antioch. He will also keep busy by serving as president of the Lakes Region Historical Society.

Lindblad recalled the days when gambling and slot machines ran rampant in downtown Antioch and back rooms of other establishments served as bookie parlors. He said every business and shop had a slot machine until the state came with army trucks to haul away the slot machines.

Bob and Dorothy were also members of the original Lakeland Players before PM&L took over at the live theater downtown.

"I was in 15 plays, but I can't remember a single line," Lindblad joked.

After 50 years of marriage, it seems the most important line he remembers, holds true to his heart and only had to say once, is: "I do."

Rte. 83

or businesses," Martini said.

She also stressed that property owners along Rte. 83 should be warned that the state will be acquiring additional land in order to make the road improvements.

Of particular concern, Martini said additional right of way will be required in front of Antioch Community High School and the Squire Restaurant.

"I don't know where the heck they're going to have parking," said Martini, referring to the Squire.

Homeowners living near Loon Lake may be especially crunched as the state acquires additional land in front of their homes and the Wisconsin Central Railroad lies behind their homes. Furthermore, ComEd is proposing to build electric lines along the western edge of Loon Lake as well.

Overall, Martini said the road improvements along Rte. 83 will benefit the region and free up traffic.

"Hopefully, it will cut down some of the accidents by letting up on the congestion," Martini said.

While grateful for a traffic signal at Beach Grove Road and Rte. 83, Martini urged transportation officials to install an additional light at Rte. 59 and Beach Grove Rd.

Water, Warren dampen AHS cage effort

STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

The winner of the most valuable staff member award at the Warren Township High School-Antioch clash Tuesday?

The custodial crew of WTHS.

Workers had to repair a spot where water was coming down before Warren High's squad could go on and crush Antioch 67-47. The win gave Warren a 13-1 North Suburban Conference record, 17-6 overall.

Duct tape was used as the game was halted for 33 minutes at halftime. School officials did not expect the Waukegan sectional tournament clash with Carmel Feb. 28 to be affected.

When the roof was dry, Luke Moo scored 20 points and had 12 rebounds as he topped the Warren High effort.

"We had to take control because they had started to make a run at us," Warren's Maurice Foster said.

Foster, one of the seniors honored in pregame ceremony on this long night, added six assists and seven rebounds to his 12 points.

"Since I have been point guard, I have been looking to dish it to the post," Foster said.

"We played a lot better defense in the second quarter than the first. We got the ball inside more and at times had good passing," Warren Coach Chuck Ramsey said.

Warren, the second seed at the Waukegan sectional, won its seventh straight game.

Ahead by only four points after eight minutes, Warren zoomed to a 19-point halftime lead, 39-20. Warren shot 64 percent for the first half, but cooled off to 52 percent total. Warren continued its improvement at the free-throw line, making 18-of-26.

Senior Don Hirschfeld contributed his second straight nine-point game.

Kevin Geraghty, Antioch's leading scorer, was held to five points by Foster's defense and foul trouble. Dave Warren tried to pick up the slack with 12 points and Justin McRae had 11 for Antioch (12-13, 6-8 NSC).

Final home game proves sweet for Antioch squad

There is no place like home. There is no place like home.

At least not if you are Dorothy in the Wizard of Oz or the Antioch High boys basketball team. The Sequoits knocked off their third first-division team of the year in the friendly confines of ACHS. Zion joined the ranks of Libertyville and Warren High in a 52-49 loss.

"We have played well at home. It was a good win - we needed to beat a good team," Antioch High Coach Jeff Dresser said.

Antioch surrendered the game's first seven points, adjusted and outscored the Zee-Bees 19-4 the rest of the first quarter.

Kevin Geraghty led the way with 17 points, including four three-pointers. He also made clutch fourth quarter free-throws as Antioch was 10-of-16 from the free-throw line.

"We kept our composure and played great defense," Dresser said.

Kevin Eckenstahler played "his best all-around game," Dresser said. He scored 12 points, had 13 rebounds (11 defensive and three blocked shots).

Antioch (6-7 NSC, 12-12 overall) cooled off in the second period for a 30-25 halftime lead. Defense ruled the third period. Zion-Benton (8-5 NSC, 18-8) was held to three field goals.

Dave Warren, Justin McRae, Eric Campbell all played solid defense. McRae had the task of making Manasseh Stackhouse's shot off-balance in the waning seconds.

Antioch completed the regular season at Warren High.

"We always get pumped up to play Warren and they will be out for revenge because we are the only team in the conference to beat them," Dresser said.

Antioch, the 10th seed at the Waukegan sectional, is at Highland Park, seeded seventh in the Feb. 28 first-round clash. Should Warren and Antioch win their first round battles, they would meet March 1 for the regional title.

"We lost to Highland Park by nine points after down 9-0 in the first game of the season," Dresser said.

Minuskin's shot lifts WTHS, sinks Antioch in regional

STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

As far as the girls basketball fans in Gurnee are concerned, the play had as much post-season impact as a Reggie Jackson home run in the World Series.

Or maybe a touchdown pass from John Elway.

Or maybe a shrug-of-the shoulders from Michael Jordan.

With the game and the season on the line, Warren High's Julie Minuskin dribbled to the top of the key and canned a three-pointer.

Ahead by only six at the time, Warren went on to win by 20, 50-30 over Antioch and gain its ninth trip to sectional semifinals in 10 years.

"An Antioch girl said, 'OK Julie, show us what you've got,'" Minuskin recalled.

The three were her only points in the second half as she had 13 first-half points. She had several second-half assists, to teammates for open lay-ups.

"If she makes that three - the game is over. If she misses it - we are right back in it and there is a game," Antioch Coach Dave Woods said.

After The Shot, Warren went on a 7-2 run for a 14 point lead after three. Tracy Fiedler (10 points) had a baseline shot and a lay-up off a pass from Minuskin for a 13-point lead.

O'Connell cut the lead to 10 in the fourth and Warren was in a four turnover and one miss funk.

Kelver scored off another assist from Minuskin, sending the home team to a game ending 12-4 run.

"We were just playing hard. We really wanted this game," senior Carrie Schneider (six points, six rebounds), said.

The defensive pressure was applied at the free-throw line extended by Tiffany Kelver (10 points) and Amy Van Camp, a freshman and a senior.

"Amy is by far our quickest player - she can cover two positions at one in the matchup zone," Campbell said.

Kelver converted more than one coast-to-coast lay-up off one of her patent steals. She would lay the ball off the glass with the confidence of a seasoned senior.

"She does not play like a freshman. She runs like a track person," Campbell said.

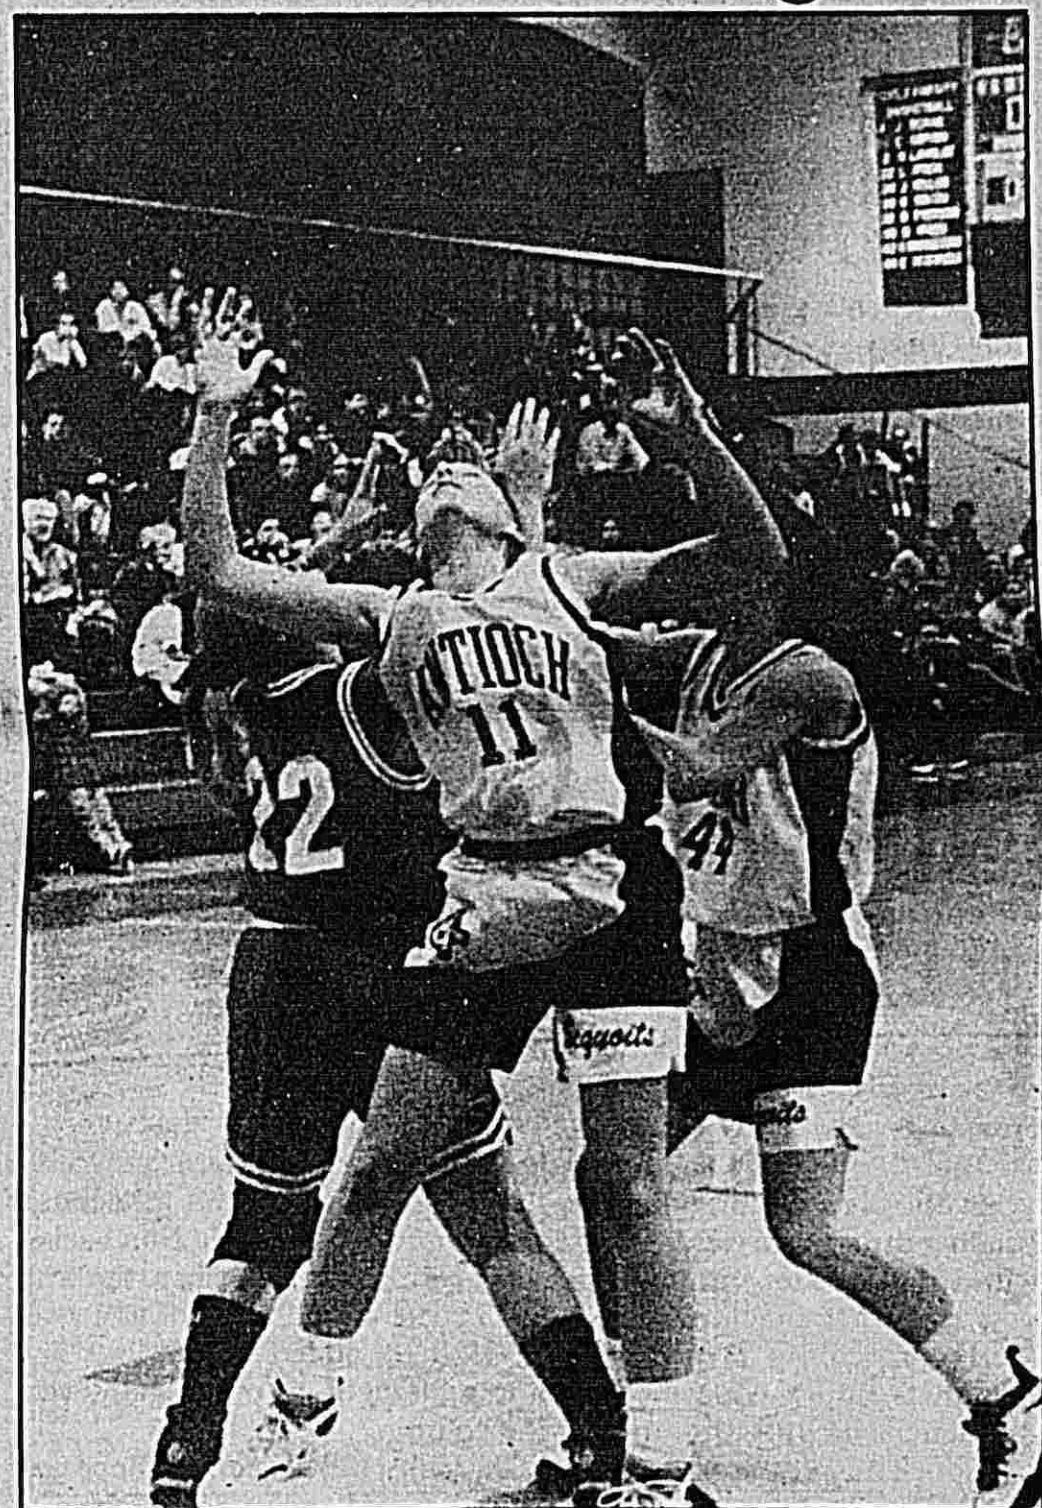

Carrie Gofron helped keep Antioch (16-7) close with 10 points. She will lead the returning Sequoits next year.

Seniors Erin O'Connell (8 points) and Mary Ipsen (4 points) and Dana Pierson played in their last game.

"We were hurt by cold shooting, but we made a nice comeback. We were just one possession away. I have no complaints," Woods said.

The seniors guided the Sequoits to their most wins in 11 years.

"It will be tough to replace them. They carried us all year," Woods said.

Junior Sequoit teams rack up a full week's worth of victories

It was a busy week for the Antioch Youth Basketball program, with each of the three traveling teams playing at least four games in a seven-day period.

The 6th grade squad won three of four on the week, starting off with Johnsburg. Brain Walsh, Chris Kocinski and Kevin Pendergast were the scoring leaders in the 47-26 win. Defensively, Antioch was led by Ryan Callahan and Justin Mehaffey.

Pressure defense was used by the team to crush Mchenry 38-17 in the second game, Pendergast leading the Junior Sequoits with 12 points. Eight of ten players hit the scoring column in the win, and outstanding rebounding performances were turned in by Kocinski and Walsh. The team also got productive games from Sean Schuler, Andrew Kinney and Andrew Petkus.

The 6th graders suffered the week's only loss as Vernon Hills, with poor free throw shooting contributing to a close 30-26 loss. Antioch converted on only eight of 18 attempts from the charity stripe. Justin Mehaffey and Schuler turned in excellent defensive performances.

Every player scored in the 49-20 win over Warren. Joe Finkelberg led all scorers with 14 points, while Schuler and Pendergast added six each.

The 6th grade record now stands at 5-2.

The 7th grade squad broke a five-game losing streak in style, winning five straight and evening their record at 5-5.

Balanced scoring and solid defense were the keys in the team's 54-34 win over Johnsburg. Eric White led the junior Sequoits with eight points, while teammates Justin Kent, Brandon White and Mike Perrone added six each. Scott Hodina and Eric Langner each added five.

Defensively, Antioch was led by Brad Cromeans, Ari Brown, Tom Davis and Mark Purnell.

Purnell and Brown led Antioch offensively against McHenry, scoring eight points each in the 44-35 win. The Junior Sequoits forced 12 turnovers on excellent defensive efforts by Bryant Popp, Kevin Podstawa, White and Kent.

Hot hands prevailed over Grayslake, with Antioch hitting a blistering 74 percent from the field in the first half of the 66-34 win.

The teams combined for 46 points in the first half, Antioch holding Grayslake to 17.

Brown led all scorers with 16 points, while Hodina and Langner reached double figures with 14 and 10 points respectively. Purnell added nine points and five steals, while Perrone, White and Cromeans controlled the boards.

The team went on to down Vernon Hills 51-31, White leading all scorers with 15 markers. Brown added 13, while Eric White added eight. Hodinas hauled down nine rebounds, while Cromeans snagged another six boards for the Junior Sequoits.

Pressure defense by Kent, Davis, Langner and Rob Lodesky produced 17 turnovers.

Estrada, Ray medal in IHSA mat finals

DANIEL RAMAGE

Sports Editor

Amador Estrada surprised almost everyone. Everyone that didn't know him, that is.

The Round Lake High School sophomore became the most successful wrestler in the school's history when he took second in the IHSA Class AA wrestling tournament at Champaign's Assembly Hall. The 103-pound grappler finished his season with a 20-1 record.

The only blemish on that record came in the final, where Estrada fell 15-4 to top-ranked Jeremy Hayes of Morton.

En route to the final round Estrada wrestled almost flawlessly. He defeated Normal's Steve Lenox 14-9 in the first round, scored a 9-5 decision over Bethalto's Steve Bryant in the quarterfinals and dominated Oak Forest's Chris Stuart in the semifinal round, winning 7-2.

The other area wrestler to medal was Mike Ray of Warren Township High School. The 140-pound senior took fifth in Class AA and finished up his final prep season with a stellar 42-1 record.

Other area wrestlers who qualified for the state meet included:

- Matt Hlinak, Antioch — Hlinak, a 119-pound senior, was pinned in 2:47 of his first match. He ended his season with a 36-4 record.

- Luke Dyer, Antioch — Dyer, a 125-pound senior, won his first match 10-3, then lost in a second-round technical fall. He won one round of the wrestle-backs with an 8-3 decision before being eliminated. He ended his season with a 34-10 record.

- Jason Breen, Antioch — Breen, a 152-pound senior, dropped his preliminary match in a close 9-7 overtime battle, ending his season with a 30-8 record.

St. James wins St. Peter tourney

The seventh grade St. James Bulldogs of Arlington Heights defeated Holy Cross of Deerfield by a final score of 20-15 to capture first place in the tournament. The Bulldogs were led in scoring by Jessica Brizzolara with eight points and Morgan Kautz with six points. Holy Cross' leading scorer was Laura Cuniff with seven points.

St. James defeated St. Joseph of Libertyville 22-17 and St. Catharine of Glenview 33-22 to advance to the finals, while Holy Cross defeated St. Patrick of Wadsworth 22-17 and received a bye into the final round when St. Joan of Arc of Skokie had to forfeit due to injuries.

St. Thomas of Crystal Lake were winners of the consolation bracket, defeating St. Patrick of Wadsworth 30-21.

Tournament top scorer was Becky Flatt of St. Thomas of Crystal Lake with 25 points.

Tournament top free throw shooter (based on 10 attempts) was Lisa Bukowski of St. Thomas of Crystal Lake, shooting 6 of 10 for 60 percent.

Tournament top scoring team was St. Thomas of Crystal Lake with 73 points.

Tournament top free throw team (based on 20 attempts) was St. James of Arlington Heights, shooting 14 of 45 for 31 percent.

St. Patrick Hornets take first

The eighth grade St. Patrick Hornets of Wadsworth came into the St. Peter Tournament with only one thing on their mind, and that was to work hard and walk away with first place. That is what they did by defeating St. James of Arlington Heights in the finals by a score of 24-17. The Hornets were led in scoring by Crystal Zenko with 10 points, while St. James' leading scorer was Karyn Roth with six points.

St. Patrick defeated St. Joseph of Libertyville 32-23 and St. John of Johnsburg 33-21 to advance to the finals, while St. James posted victories over St. Margaret Mary of Algonquin 31-16 and beating the host team, St. Peter of Antioch, 28-14 to advance into the final rounds.

St. Joseph of Libertyville were winners in the consolation bracket, defeating St. Margaret Mary of Algonquin 33-16.

Tournament top scorer was Zenko of St. Patrick of Wadsworth with 39 points.

Tournament top free throw shooter (based on 10 attempts) was Amie Kristan of St. Joseph of Round Lake, shooting 8 of 10 for 80 percent.

Tournament top scoring team was St. Joseph of Libertyville with 101 points.

Tournament top free throw team (based on 20 attempts) was St. Patrick of Wadsworth, shooting 24 of 48 for 50 percent.

DAN RAMAGE

I wanna be like Mike — Ray, that is

Warren Township High School's Mike Ray may not have won a state championship in wrestling last weekend in Champaign, but don't let his fifth-place finish fool you — this kid is a winner.

The 140-pound senior went to Champaign undefeated, with all of the expectations that go along with a perfect record. Many in the area expected him to win, but their expectations of Ray were no greater than what he expected of himself.

He won his first match, but then the unthinkable happened. With only two seconds remaining in his quarterfinal bout, he allowed the takedown that lost him the match and his chance at the state title he worked so hard for.

Another person might have been despondent, understandably so. So what did Ray do?

"I went home and slept it off, and when I woke up this morning I thought 'Hey, it's a new day,'" said Ray. "I lost and there's nothing I can do but redeem myself."

We all face a new day after our disappointments. Few of us have the werewithal to take advantage of the attendant new possibilities, however. Not so with Ray.

His first opponent the next day reaped the whirlwind. Ray had a commanding lead in the fourth period, but he did not relax and ride it out. With one second left in that match, Ray's opponent found himself staring at the ceiling of the Assembly Hall while the ref slapped the mat to signal a pin.

The next opponent didn't fare much better; he went the distance, but Ray schooled him in the art of aggressive wrestling. The result? Another Ray win, 11-4.

The impressive thing, aside from such a resounding comeback, was Ray's attitude. He regained his focus, but without angry histrionics. His sportsmanship (and his good humor) were evident at all times. He did not glare at opponents, talk trash, wrestle dirty or in any way act as though the disappointment of the day before mattered a bit.

"My goal coming here was to be state champ," said Ray, "but I'm not disappointed."

He meant it. He accepted the medal for fifth place with a smile.

After watching literally hundreds of matches over the course of the weekend, I found myself as impressed with Ray as I was with any of the champs. It had little to do with his wrestling skills, formidable though they are.

What impressed me was his attitude. Trite though it may be, a winner is as a winner does, and Ray does just fine.

He lost with grace and he won with humility. He made no excuses in defeat, nor did he toot his own trumpet in victory.

The maturity displayed by this young man is a trait we might all do well to emulate. Too many of us, myself included, let our disappointments ruin a day, a year, a month or a life. Living in our pasts, we fail to see the miracles of the present or the potential of the future. But one failure does not a ruined life make. I guess I always knew that, in an abstract way, but to see it not as a motto but as a way of life really brought the point home.

So thank you, Mike Ray, for reminding me that a loss does not make one a loser. First place or fifth place or dead last, you are a winner.

Victories

The 8th grade squad improved to 8-1 after going 5-1 on the week.

Every player scored in the team's 49-40 win over Johnsburg. Leading the scorers were Quinn Gooch with 12 points and Don Lackey with 10. Neil Zeller and Jon Logan also contributed heavily to the win.

Lackey led the Junior Sequoits in the squad's 59-51 win over McHenry, scoring 11 points. Brady Schultz added nine points and teammate Chuck Wenzel chipped in with eight, as once again every Antioch player broke into the scoring column.

Gooch tallied 16 points against Grayslake, but his performance was not enough to prevent a 57-41 loss.

After trailing Vernon Hills 16-13, the Junior Sequoits rallied to pull out a 53-41 win. Jason Schuler scored 17 points, while Gooch and Lackey added 14 apiece. Guard Brad Groth played a strong game to help with the win.

The 8th graders ended the week on a thrilling note, edging Warren 49-48. A full-court press in the final period enabled Antioch to regain the lead, and a pair of Groth free throws sealed the win.

Gooch led all scorers with 18 points, with teammates Lackey and Schuler scoring 14 and 11 respectively. Brandon Clutts aided the Antioch squad with a fine defensive performance.

Waterway Agency announces winter projects

The Fox Waterway Agency Water Quality committee is pushing to accomplish more winter projects than ever before.

According to Directors Wayne Blake and Marshall Lowe, Water Quality chairmen, the Agency has been trucking dredge material at a rapid rate. Approximately 220 truck loads daily are being taken to upland sites.

In less than one week, all three of the new trucks the Agency received from the State were put to use hauling 2,600 cubic yards of material from the Trevor Creek area near Lake Catherine in Antioch Township.

In another project Thelen Excavating, under contract with the Agency, is removing 35,000 cubic yards from the Ackerman Island Containment site.

Pistakee Highlands subdivision resident Bryan Patterson recently hosted a meeting to discuss dredging needs of the Pleasant View Channel straddling both McHenry and Lake County.

Agency Director Stan J. Mill

of McHenry County discussed a number of possible projects for the channel.

Homeowners will work together with the Agency on future dredging needs for their area.

Carmel wins Blue Ribbon for school excellence

SUZIE REED

Staff Reporter

Staff and students were pleased to learn the U.S. Dept. of Education officially agreed Carmel High School is a special place.

Lake County's only Catholic high school has been selected to receive a Blue Ribbon award for excellence. It was named an exemplary school in 1985, said Fr. Bill Harry, president of Carmel.

"It was the first time we applied for this particular award," he said. "We always suspected we had an award-winning school. It's nice to have that verified by an outside group."

Harry said the application was sent a year and a half ago, with a stack of documents describing Carmel's efforts. The reports emphasized the use of technology and parent participation, with information a partnership between the school, students and parents."

on academic standing and curriculum as well as the environment the school provides.

"It was awarded because of participation and leadership," said Harry. "We have

September, when a district superintendent from Fall River, Mass., spent a couple of days at the school to verify Carmel's claims.

"When he got here we had an 8-foot table full of documents he reviewed,"

Harry explained. "He met with the administration, parents and students and went around and sat in on classes."

The award will be officially presented in Washington, D.C. later this spring. Three representatives are invited to attend the ceremony, but Harry could not say who would go.

He is scheduled to leave the school at the end of the year, but is grateful for going out on a high note. In addition to heading a Blue Ribbon school, he was highlighted as one of the ten most influential people in Lake County in Lakeland Newspapers' Forefronts section this month.

"It's been an interesting week," he concluded.

Campaign manager creates victors from unknown

Thacker leads Salvi against political machine

RHONDA HETRICK BURKE

Editor in Chief

The secret weapon.

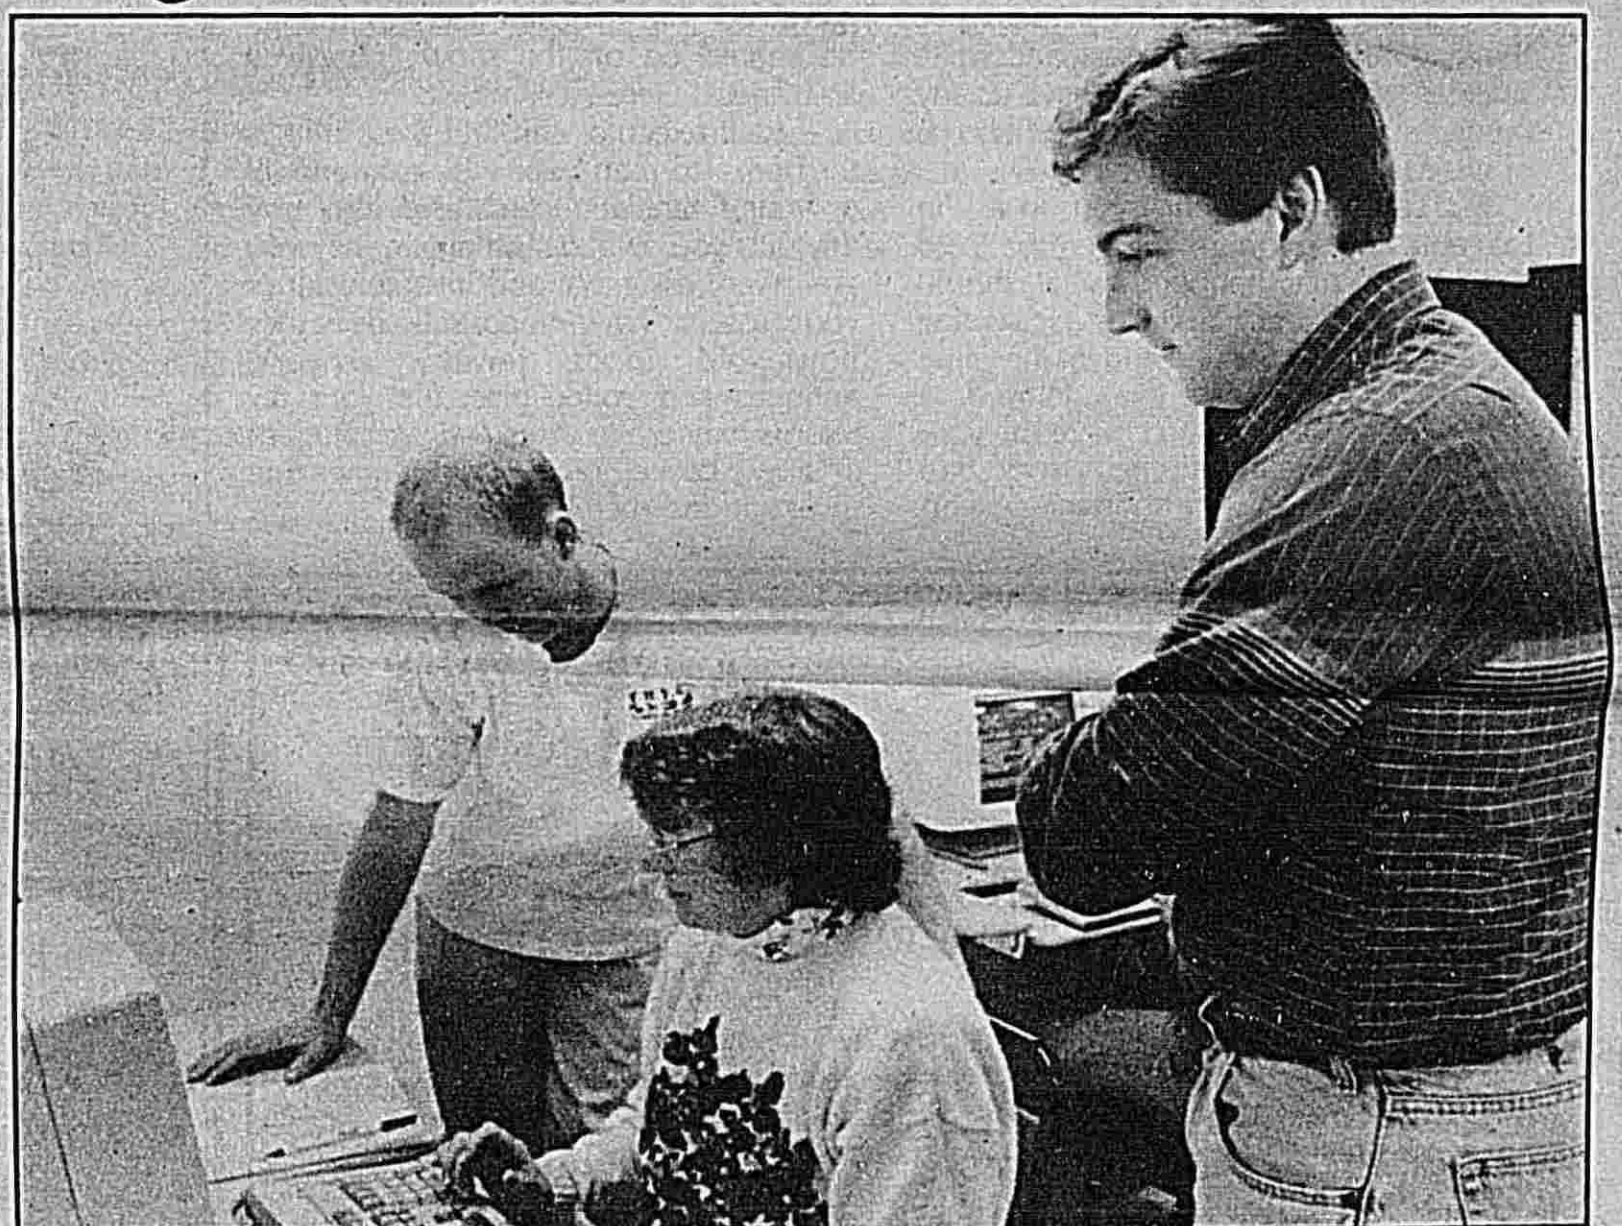

In politics, there is usually at least one, whether it be a skilled strategist or a influential supporter.

In the campaign of Lake County senatorial candidate Al Salvi, one weapon may be the experience of a man who has taken a political unknown and made him a winner.

Baby-faced Jim Thacker, a 33-year-old political science major with a love for politics and a belief in the conservative ideals of the Republican party, is low-key and soft-spoken. He is also State Rep. Al Salvi's senatorial campaign manager.

In 1992, Thacker met Don Manzullo, a Rockford political unknown and guided him to both a primary and a general election victory. He is currently representing the 16th Congressional District in Washington.

He began to get involved with politics as a college student working on campaigns as a volunteer. See THACKER page B15

Spangler views Olympic success as an inspiration

STEVE PETERSON

Staff Reporter

Jenny Spangler received a warm welcome from those gathered around the Grayslake High track on a July day in 1992.

She was coming in first place in the race, a position she is accustomed to. To this day, even in the Olympic spotlight, the local races are important.

"Every race you run teaches you about racing. You learn you can go out too fast or go out in control. The local races are great because there is so much community support," Spangler said.

Spangler, who won first place in the half-marathon at Lake County Races last year, is on her way to Atlanta's Olympic Games after winning the qualifying race for the women's marathon in Columbia, S.C.

"I am still the same person, but I feel the sense of responsibility for others who have dedicated themselves and made sacrifices. I hope I will not let other people down," Spangler said.

Spangler, of Gurnee, returned to Lake Forest on Saturday to a welcome home gathering at Trustmark Insurance Co., her employer. She had stunned the running world with a time of 2 hours, 29 minutes and 54 seconds. This Saturday, she had a chance to watch on tape delay what she had accomplished one week earlier.

"The main thing was to stay under control. At the 16-mile mark, called Fort Jackson, some girls were having trouble getting up the hill, but I felt fine," Spangler, age 32, said.

She felt good about her chances at the 20-mile mark with six miles to go. She went into the race seeking one of three spots on the Olympic team, not necessarily the top one.

After conquering the hill and coming across the finish line, a whirlwind of activity has taken place.

Spangler has been the focus of national media attention.

"I was driving to see some of my friends in Iowa City on Thursday - with no phone for four hours - when it hit me. I started crying," Spangler said.

Spangler said she was thinking about her family - the race happened to take place on her grandmother's birthday - and how she overcame obstacles during workouts while See SPANGLER page B3

I love you, but...please don't make me your executor

PHILIP A. COLATRINO

Q. My widowed father recently told me I am the executor of his estate. I have no idea what this involves or what his estate consists of. When I asked him if we could sit down to talk about it, he evaded the question. Our family isn't wealthy, but my dad did manage to save some money and I know he owns some land in Arizona. How can I convince him I'm not being nosy but that it's important I understand what's to take place? I feel funny asking him again.

A. First of all, I want to assure you that you're not alone. Clients ask me all the time how to approach their parents or relatives about their estate. It's not an easy subject to bring up. Those who have been "brave" enough to ask, tell me stories about how their questions were avoided or how their parents became quite upset.

Second, you were right to ask. It's important that an executor be informed, and if you aren't you should ask to be. Now of course don't say, "Hey Dad, we're thinking about buying a house and we're wondering if you're going to leave us any money in your will..." Not a good choice of words.

But sometimes, even if you do ask in the right way, you might get the cold shoulder. If that happens, what should you do? Well, you could start by sharing this article with your dad and, at the same time, share the booklet I've enclosed, "I Love You but...please don't make me your executor." I think it will help your dad understand why it's so important to keep you informed. It also has a pull-out section where he can write down all his wishes, what he owns, and where everything is. Hopefully he'll use it as a guide when he sits down with you. For the rest of our readers here's a short excerpt:

Now, as for the rest of you...Being an executor can be "the last curse from the grave." Some joke that if you have a relative you don't particularly care for, choose them as your executor. Why? Even if an estate is in perfect order, being an executor can be a real challenge. Few estates are in perfect order. Then, to make things worse, the executor is usually kept in the dark. It's not uncommon to find out the executor doesn't know where important papers are or what arrangements have been made.

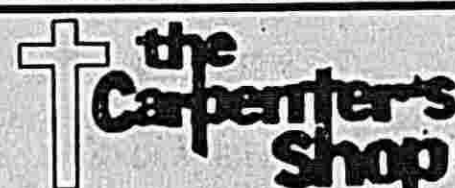

When I started to write out a list of an executor's responsibilities, I quit after four pages. Can you imagine trying to take care of all these things if you don't know where anything is or what has been promised? The executor feels as though he should be on the show "Unsolved Mysteries"! Here's a short list:

If your executor can find these things, they are—to read your will; examine all of your financial records and files; pay any bills you owe; collect any money you are owed; assemble and inventory all of your assets; have appraisals done for household goods, jewelry, artwork, antiques and collectibles; file your tax returns, pay estate taxes and probate fees (if any); cancel credit cards, magazine subscriptions, memberships, etc.

If your executor knows what you want, they are to make sure your burial instructions are carried out; family members (and others) are kept informed; ongoing business is managed; property, collectibles, jewelry, heirlooms and household goods are given to the right heirs; property, cars and home titles are transferred or sold. And this is just the tip of the iceberg!

School district makes cuts

ROUND LAKE—The Unit District 116 school board had the task of cutting a deficit-ridden budget by $1.9 million or $1.3 million.

District officials said the move was needed because lenders won't give the district money unless a plan is in place to cut the budget which is $4.5 million in the red. The district will cut athletics, all extra-curricular activities, driver's education to name just a few. Even if the voters approve a 45-cent increase in the education fund rate in March, the $1.3 million in cuts are necessary, officials said.

Intersection gets 4-way stop

ANTIOCH—A dangerous intersection in unincorporated Antioch got a little a bit safer. At the strong urging of the Village of Antioch, the Lake County Department of Transportation converted the intersection of Deep Lake Road and North Avenue into a full four-way stop. Previously, it was a two-way stop. For motorists traveling east on North Avenue, the intersection approached quickly after strong curves. For motorists traveling north on Deep Lake Road, the intersection approached quickly after a hill. To further increase the visibility of the intersection, transportation officials said they will install a flashing light when the weather and ground conditions permit.

Hawthorn names new supt.

VERNON HILLS—Hawthorn School District 73 named Dr. Youssef Yomtoob as the new superintendent of the school. He is expected to take his post officially July 1. Business Manager Jess Porres has been serving as interim superintendent since the resignation of Ed Noyes last summer. School officials said they were impressed with Yomtoob's teaching credentials and especially with his strong relationships with children during his visit at the school. Board members were also attracted to Yomtoob's experience in bringing a cash-strapped district from the red to the black. Hawthorn just erased a $9.4 million debt through referendum and was looking for someone to keep a tight line its finances.

Snowblowers stolen

WAUCONDA—An unknown number of suspects are responsible for the theft of 13 snowblowers taken from a locked shed located behind Sears Hardware, 450 W. Liberty St., sometime between 9 p.m. Feb. 16 and 6:30 a.m. Feb. 17, police said. The shed did not have an alarm. A lock on the shed was pried off, allowing the suspects to gain access to the snowblowers, with a combined value of $7,367, police said. Eight gas grills were left untouched, and police are unsure how the suspects got the snowblowers, all in boxes, off the property, as a six-foot link fence remained untouched.

Students learn forensic skills

WAUCONDA—Sixth grade students at Wauconda Middle And Grade schools are using police forensic skills to solve a fictional murder mystery. The skills are the same ones students use in science and mathematics courses, and include knowledge of anatomy, chemicals and geometry, said Wauconda Police Officer Ron Geary. This is the second year the sixth grade has held a mystery festival, allowing students to use their science skills in other areas outside the classroom. The festival also incorporates many of the other subject areas the students have, including reading, language arts, and social studies.

Olympic torchbearer named

LIBERTYVILLE—Libertyville resident Sheila O'Neil has been named a torchbearer for the 1996 Olympic Torch as it travels through Illinois. O'Neil is training for the Para-Olympics in the 100 and 200 meter track event. She is employed at the Lake County Center for Independent Living in Mundelein as the Manager of Independent Living Services.

Employees thank bosses on TV

LAKE ZURICH—Employees of a popular village restaurant tricked their bosses into appearing on a national talk show to receive a fictional award for being the friendliest restaurant in the Midwest. The owners of Fritz's County Inn, 900 Ravinia Terrace, Robert, Peter and Gary Tschurtz, appeared on the "Gordon Elliot Show" earlier this week, where instead of getting an award, they were thanked by their employees in front of a national television audience for providing a nice place to work. "It was a silly tribute to say we admire you guys," said Melissa Moore, a waitress at the restaurant for 11 years. She conceived the idea.

Permits, job offered to Agency

CHAIN O' LAKES—The Fox Waterway Agency will be working on 81 projects according to the 1996 dredging and maintenance plan, stretching north from Lake Catherine to Algonquin in the south. The Agency received permits from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for all of the projects. Also during the meeting at the Chicago District Army Corps headquarters, Agency Chairman Dr. William C. Dam was advised of a concept for the Fox Waterway Agency to assume responsibility for issuing permits for work, such as new seawalls and private dredging of channels on the Chain O' Lakes and Fox River. While officials feel this is an honor, they caution at this time the Fox Waterway Agency is not a regulatory body.

Grayslake man wins dog show

GRAYSLAKE—Mark Bettis of Grayslake, a professional dog handler and Andy, the bearded collie (Champion Diotima Bear Necessity), won the herding class at the Westminster Dog Show last week. The Westminster show arena is considered the cream of the crop of dog shows in the U.S. where the best dogs in the country come together, according to Bettis. The duo competed against 22 other dogs in the bearded collie breed and won before advancing to the herding class which includes 14 breeds. The dog is professionally handled by Bettis but is owned by a woman in Texas.

Volo annexes 40-acres

VOLO—Fish Lake Beach campgrounds will be expanding. The Volo village board approved a 40-acre annexation of land adjacent to the site. Delmar Maassel is the campground owner and also village trustee. The 57-year-old camp site is located on Volo Village Road (formerly Route 120), and surrounds Fish Lake, covering 120-acres. Sixty-acres are currently being used for vacationers and weekend fishermen, says Maassel. The addition of land annexed acquired two years ago will make a total of 80-acres for camping lots with 20 acres left as they are since he has no other plans for them right now.

State Senator Adeline Geo-Karis and Green Oaks Mayor Thomas G. Adams, candidate for State Senate in Dist. 30, congratulate Jenny Spangler, the first U.S. athlete to make an Olympic Team in 1996. Spangler also received a senate proclamation.

Spangler

Spangler's coach, Willy Rios, said she will have about the next week off before training begins again.

"It was a tremendous experience for many of us," Rios said. "I am blessed to have coached these ladies. It is an inspiration to me. I have learned a lot."

Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion) presented an Illinois Senate certificate of appreciation to Spangler during a visit to the state capitol this week.

After taking some time off, Spangler began marathons again in 1994. She won the Chicago Distance Classic 20K race, the Chemical Bank Corporate Challenge 5K and the Motorola Half-Marathon. She was second at the Lake County Races half-marathon, a race sponsored by her employer.

Last year she won the Lake County Races half-marathon, breaking a 10-year-old record and was second in the Chemical Bank Corporate Challenge.

Spangler, practically a track unknown rated 61st out of 61 entrants in the Olympic qualifying race, Feb. 10.

Respect arts viewpoints

Editor:

Concerning the Libertyville Fine Arts Dept. and the decision to replace the spring play, we disagree with the allegation that this was censorship. We also don't believe that a parent's expressed concern should be considered a threat to a department's decision-making process. We, too, questioned the selection of three consecutive "Dark-side" plays.

We believe that a panel of fine arts faculty, fine arts students, and parents of students, should be created to give input to the department concerning possible play selections. Yes, the community should trust the teachers, but also, the teachers should trust the parents. Don't we both desire what is in the best interest of our students?

We believe that the "Voice of reason" calls for cooperative respect between faculty and parents, to do what is best for our children.

Clinton's 'use' church

Editor:

Dating back to the beginning of politics, politicians sought out various church and religious institutions. This was primarily done to provide speeches, with a church backdrop. Surprisingly the Clintons found photo opportunities at all places, a Catholic setting.

With the President and First Lady's pro-choice positions, and views etched in stone it becomes arguably unbelievable of their choice for photos.

A Catholic establishment in suburb an Hyattsville, Md., St. Ann's Infant and Maternity Home as the Clintons' photo-op, before Christmas.

The Catholic Home, was host to Hillary Clinton and Socks the Clintons' family cat. Mrs. Clinton gave of herself, a precious hour giving out candy to children and showing off Socks. Mrs. Clinton wowed them in Hyattsville and picked up some terrific press. Except that a few days prior to the visit, Cardinal James Hickey of Washington had written to Mrs. Clintons' husband, asking the President not to veto legislation intended to ban partial birth abortions that Congress is expected to place on his desk. Cardinal Hickey graphically but accurately explained the procedure to the president.

Perhaps the time and place for

Mrs. Clinton and Socks to have their photos taken was a mistake but not really. It seems clear that President Clinton's re-election strategy may well be to include a Catholic strategy.

An attempt to use Christmas, maternity homes and the Catholic Church as pawns to ask Catholics to help his cause come election day.

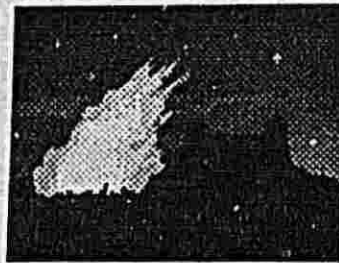

What's a little Catholic Parish supposed to do if this were to happen again? Hopefully, just say no thank you.

Republican barn burning

Editor:

While Illinois may be characterized as a "centrist, dispassionate state," the Republican race for the U.S. Senate here in prairie-land may wind up as a real barn burner. On the right, Al Salvi symbolizes the new Republicans in Washington. He has amassed impressive grass roots support, including home schoolers, the pro-life community, Second Amendment supporters, and family organizations. Salvi's sponsorship of a "Women's Right to Know" bill and a "Parental Rights Amendment," as well as his interest in the state's adoption and foster care system, are typical of the broad nature of his commitment to conservatism.

In contrast to Salvi's conservative principles is Bob Kustra's fascination with political power. His wheeling and dealing in smoke filled back rooms with Springfield Republican fatcats has enabled him to garner numerous committee endorsements. It is thought in political circles that most of Kustra's endorsements come on the heels of arm twisting from Governor Edgar, since most of those endorsing him owe their jobs and political futures to the Governor.

Add to this, Kustra's flip-flopping—be it abortion, Goals 2000 or becoming a radio talk show host. He has embraced liberal legislation from banning handguns to endorsing special rights for homosexuals. While a state representative he voted 97 percent of the time with Dawn Clark Netsch on spending bills and 85 percent of the time with the now deposed Democrats.

Most revealing about the candidates is their response to questions at town meetings. While Salvi remains calm, Kustra appears agitated and annoyed at participants. On more than one occasion, Kustra has virtually exploded at those who would ask him tough questions. See LETTERS page B5

New demographics altering campaign

In the March 19 primary for Lake County Board nominations, a substantial number of the Republican challengers are banking on changing demographics and the increasing dissatisfaction with GOP leadership to topple incumbents.

More and more mainstream Republicans are frustrated with the "top down" style party leadership where political pals and insiders are favored over the interest of the general public. This is especially true in how the GOP majority on the County Board under Chairman Robert Depke has been orchestrating a policy of rampant growth and development for the past four years.

Ironically, the growth and development policies are resulting in major shifts of voter attitudes and philosophy. New voters are younger and tend to be better educated. They have higher incomes. They are issue orientated, preferring qualifications and records over "good old boy" endorsements. Trained in the business world, they understand networking and organization. They are concerned about educational standards, the environment, open space and wetlands preservation. They recognize that the Lake County they invested in for their "dream home"—rolling countryside dotted with small towns and upscale subdivisions—rapidly is giving way to impersonal, indistinguishable urbanized enclaves they sought to escape.

Improving lifestyle and property values is uppermost in the minds of newcomers. Lack of planning is repugnant to them.

Nowhere is this more evident than in County Board districts represented by entrenched members of the Republican majority. Depke himself is facing a challenge from Al Westerman, who left employment with the county as a Forest Preserve Dist. staffer after 18 years because of philosophic differences with the majority leadership.

Dick Raftis, 25 years as Farm Bureau manager and concluding his first County Board term, is facing stiff opposition from Sandy Cole, employed by a family-owned public accounting firm, who is smarting under Raftis' attempts to defund the Lake County Soil and Water Dist. on which she serves as a non-paid director. Jim Johnson, a retired school teacher, is attempting to capitalize on a wave favoring slower, controlled growth in Lake Zurich to topple incumbent Bob Grever, long time Ela Township supervisor, and a member of Depke's inner circle.

Bonnie Thomson Carter is making no secret of courting a combination of newcomers and disenchanted Republicans to retire Ed Fojtik. Carter says Fojtik has failed to represent residents in Grant and Wauconda townships where open space and slow growth are held in high regard. Mark Shaw, a young pharmacist, is appealing to younger voters to oust Mary Beattie, a long-time party loyalist, from a Lake Bluff-Lake Forest district. Both contests are typical of the clash between independent Republicans and GOP regulars.

Indications are strong that the pattern established in 1994 when two majority insiders were unseated by independent Republicans Judy Martini and Diana O'Kelley will continue March 19. Prospects for further change in the makeup of the County Board provide an unnerving combination of predictability and uncertainty.

-Viewpoint- Grainger gift displays growth's positive side

BILL SCHROEDER

Publisher

Now that it's all over, the conveyance of a deed for a 257-acre donation to the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist., the largest single land donation in district history, let it not be forgotten that W.W. Grainger, Inc., gave something to get something.

What the $3.3 billion nationwide distributor of maintenance, repair and operating supplies got was a 155-acre office campus in one of the county's most attractive residential areas to house office employees now working in several different area locations plus a 113-acre large lot site for development of upscale single family homes to be built along Everett Rd.

That's essentially what the company wanted in the first place. The fur started to fly when it became common knowledge that Grainger was planning to develop residentially zoned 525 acres owned in upscale Mettawa. A classic battle over individual property rights ensued.

Negotiations resulting in the land donation for public use and approval for commercial development in a residential sector add up to a landmark in county history, essentially a win-win situation for everyone.

An answer goes begging to the question, why can't this happen more often? Especially when the county's leadership has posted a "for sale" sign on practically every spec of open space between Lake-Cook Rd. and the stateline, and from Lake Michigan to the Fox River.

In short, the answer is that the Grainger project and gift could be replicated countless times if only political leaders and the public had the resolve to push for quid pro quo solutions. W.W. Grainger has a long history of public spirit and generosity, but it's doubtful that the taxpayers of Lake County would have come out with what they did had not the company been pushed and pushed hard.

What the public "got" is almost intoxicating in its enormity. County Chairman Bob Depke was misty-eyed as he described the outcome. In real estate taxes alone, the Grainger project will produce more than $30 million in new revenue between the years 2000 and 2015. Estimated benefit to local schools will be $1.7 million per year. Not to be overlooked is a quality corporate citizen that provides valuable employment.

Including the Forest Preserve gift, more than 300 acres at the southwest corner of Rte. 60 and the Tri-State Tollway will be maintained as permanent open space. Grainger has earmarked 26 acres adjacent to offices for tree preservation.

A rare stand of northern flatwoods and high quality wetlands are part of the woodland/prairie complex making up the public lands.

Even before ground has been broken, the Grainger project is being hailed as a national conservation model. June 5-8 the company and the Forest Preserve Dist. will host 250 conservationists for a forum on how commercial development can coexist with the environment and people.

There should be no fault found with the county chairman's proposal to call the new public lands the Grainger Woods Conservation Preserve. W.W. Grainger is here to stay—in a big way. The company is welcomed with open arms.

Politicians need to know that with Grainger they found a key to growth and development that makes sense.

PARTY LINES

Expanding Lachner team results in new GOP force

Party Lines, the Lakeland Newspaper column of political commentary, is prepared from staff reports.

Shoreline political watchers are abuzz with the new force surrounding State Rep. Tom Lachner (R-Lake Bluff).

Lachner's influence is being felt in the County Board race in Shields Township where incumbent Rep. Mary Beattie (R-Lake Forest) is battling Mark Shaw, a Lachner associate, for a GOP nomination.

Atty. John W. Dixon, a friend of Lachner and Shaw, ran into petitioning difficulties. Otherwise, he'd be on the ballot March 19, as a candidate to succeed Lachner, who vacated his seat after one term to seek the nomination for state senator.

In a support position for Lachner and Shaw is Chuck Williams, Waukegan Republican activist.

Insiders say the maneuvering in Shields is getting more complicated every day, even to the extent of having implications when balloting takes place among precinct committeemen after the primary to select a Central Committee chairman.

Community split—The candidacy of Joel Gingiss reportedly is resulting in a split in the Highland Park Jewish community. Gingiss, a Republican attorney, is out to unseat State Rep. Lauren Beth Gash (D-Highland Park). Gash is the lone Democrat holding a regional office in Lake County.

Questionnaire—The Lake County Audubon Society is polling County Board candidates in a questionnaire on their views on Rte. 53, Yorkhouse Rd., wetlands protection, impact fees, leaf burning, etc. President Norma Munson said 1,000 members will be informed of results before the March 19 primary.

Remember me—Bonnie Thomson Carter is passing out packets of Forget-Me-Not seeds in Grant and Wauconda townships in her campaign for the Republican nomination for County Board. Her opponent, incumbent Rep. Ed Fojtik, gave away Valentine candy at the annual Lincoln Day dinner.

Changing parties—More than a few Republicans in Cuba Township (Barrington) have been doing double takes over the Democratic coloration of GOP politics these days.

Peter Suk of Wauconda, one of three candidates seeking a Republican nomination for County Board, ran against incumbent Mark Beaubien four years ago as a Democrat. Alan Roberts of North Barrington, another GOP candidate, has been associated with Democratic causes in the past. Who's the real Republican? Steve Mountsier says he is and he's got credentials as a GOP precinct committeeman to prove it. Mountsier, who now serves as a township trustee, has Central Committee endorsement going into the March 19 primary.

Taxpayer supported campaign literature—Lake County Board Members spent a total of $6,000 producing a video year-in-review and annual report. Bob Buhai (Dist. 23-Highland Park) suggested board members show the video to their local villages and other groups to show what they have accomplished during the past year. "With many of us up for election, it would be good to show this video in your district and let them know what we do," Buhai told members. Each was given a copy to take on the campaign trail with them. Sixteen of 23 members are up for reelection.

Mayoral endorsement—State Rep. Tom Lachner has garnered the support of many local mayors in his bid for State Senator in Dist. 30. One notable exception is Green Oaks Mayor Thomas Adams, who he is facing in the primary. Throwing their support behind Lachner are: Lake Forest Mayor Rhett Butler, Lake Bluff Village President Fred Wacker III and North Chicago Mayor Bobby Thompson. The Retail Merchants Association has also endorsed him. Meanwhile, retired State Senator Karl Berning, who formerly represented the 30th district, is supporting Adams.

Sweet Adeline—Lt. Gov. Bob Kustra was the guest of honor at state Senator Adeline Geo-Karis' fundraiser Valentine's Day. Geo-Karis endorsed Kustra in his senate race during the fundraiser. Red and white Salvi for Senate signs were also spotted at the event. Geo-Karis was not thrilled.

Big support—U.S. Senate candidate Al Salvi has friends in northeastern Lake County. Along Wadsworth in Zion near Our Lady of Humility Church is a large painted Salvi sign approximately 4 feet by 4 feet. Salvi opened a campaign office in Crystal Lake at the end of January that seems to be sparking business. The office is operated by volunteer staff and will be a pick up spot for campaign signs and literature.

The other Salvi—Mike Salvi's supporters hosted a campaign party Feb. 19 at Seasons of Long Grove. Salvi, whose campaign slogan is "New Leadership—Total Commitment" was to be joined by several friends including former Lake Zurich Mayor Henry Paulus, Robert Parker Coffin, Long Grove Mayor Lenore Simmons, Frank Roux, John Clery and of course brothers State Rep. Al Salvi, Jr and Dr. Thomas G. Salvi. The political newcomer is challenging incumbent Verna Clayton for the 51st district.

Porter supporter a liberal Democrat?—Lake Forest businessman Richard Rinaolo, Republican candidate for U.S. Congress, is calling on his opponent 10th District Congressman John Porter to immediately remove well-known liberal Democrat and author Scott Turow as Porter's Wilmette co-chair for the primary campaign. According to Rinaolo's campaign, Turow publicly endorsed Rinaolo and donated funds to the campaign of Democratic state representative Jeffrey Schoenberg and has voted in Democratic primaries in 1988, 1990, 1992 and 1994.

Letters

Indeed, the March Primary will give Republican voters a real choice between a consistent, soft spoken conservative idealist, and a loud mouth, arrogant career politician with a long record of being a social and economic liberal.

Eliminate danger-now!
Editor:

I feel a profound heartache for the families of the children who were victims of an accident on a dangerous section of Washington Street. I was shocked into the reality of the dangers of our roads, and the lack of adequate planning and road design in response to our rapid residential growth and increased vehicular use. Cynthia Kamp, witness to four accidents at this dangerous S-curve in one year, has seen it one time too many.

A tragedy such as this should not be a political issue. Due to the county's failure to respond to previous accidents at the same sight, it becomes one. Based on several disturbing accidents, a concerned citizen warned the county about the dangers of this section of county road, and was told she would just have to live with it.

County officials will excuse themselves by telling you "We cannot be everywhere—we rely on the people to bring situations to our attention." What happens when they do? The elected officials treat them as a nuisance. Ed Fojtik, Lake County Board Public Service Committee Chairman, said no significant verbal complaints about this road were brought to his committee's attention. How loud do we need to be? What was insignificant about Kamp's concerns?

Lake County citizens, you don't have to live with it. Use the power of your vote to make a change. Making this area a safer place to live is what I have pledged to do on the county board. I will fight for safer roadways. As a citizen I thank Kamp for trying to make one section of a street safer for all of us. When elected, I will make sure efforts such as hers, are not ignored.

No more excuses. The issue to be addressed NOW is this dangerous section of Washington Street. This is a Lake County Road. Redesign it. Improve it. Our families are driving on this road everyday. Let's make it safe.

Salvi a true conservative
Editor:

When the Founding Fathers were first sailing the symbolic Ship of State, they realized a small government was needed to create a nation that would allow both personal freedoms and stability to endure the storms of time. The founders were very skeptical of government because of its tendency to expand and infringe on freedoms, but some structure of government was needed as ballast for the Ship of State. These governmental ballast stones were originally small in number and placed only where needed.

However, with the advent of FDR's New Deal during the 1930's, more and more governmental ballast was added. This trend has continued to this day and the weight of this ballast is now causing the seas of socialism to lap over the decks of America's Ship of State. That is why the upcoming Republican primary race for U.S. Senate is important.

Taking for granted that the Democratic representative will support the liberal, more ballast, agenda of the Democratic Party, the Republicans are faced with the need to define their philosophy and vision. Al Salvi would give Republican voters a true conservative, Ronald Reagan type candidate that realizes that our nation needs to jettison much of this governmental ballast and allow our country to journey forward on the sails of liberty and freedom. Democracy is more than the right to vote. It is the right to vote for significant change in a political system and Al Salvi would give citizens a clear and distinct choice in philosophy based on personal responsibility and family values.

Retail rate law appeal praised
Editor:

Finally, the Illinois General Assembly voted to rescind the government subsidy of toxin-producing smokestacks. I was thrilled to learn as were all environmentalists, that a vote to repeal the Retail Rate Law had recently taken place.

State Rep. Lauren Beth Gash (D-60th) was a strong supporter of the repeal of this law and one of the only legislators to consistently vote for repeal regardless of which party was in power. For political reasons, both Democrats and Republicans wanted to pass this law when the other party was in power, but the minority party blocked them from doing so. Many legislators flip-flopped on their vote, depending on which party was in power. Representative Gash was one of the few legislators to vote for the environment every time.

The Retail Rate Law provides for state subsidy of garbage-burning incinerators through tax breaks to local power companies required to purchase electricity from these incinerators at inflated prices. The power companies are permitted to write off the inflated cost of the power on their state tax returns, resulting in the loss of hundreds of millions of dollars in tax revenues.

Rep. Gash said that it's one thing to offer a legitimate state subsidy to enterprises which produce jobs or otherwise promote economic growth, but quite another to subsidize companies which actually have the potential to hurt people by creating a serious environmental hazard. Naturally, she is right on target with her assessment of the Retail Rate Law, and has known for some time that it must be repealed. I offer Lauren and those of her colleagues who supported this repeal my sincerest thanks for standing up for what is right.

Why abortion right fits
Editor:

Porter has voted in support of a strict abortion law, giving the women of this country the right to choose. It is a right that the majority of the women want to keep and very few will ever choose to exercise.

I was fortunate to have four children and my wife was told never to have another, because of her medical condition. Unfortunately, if she had become pregnant, we would have been forced to a back alley, coat hanger procedure by an unqualified person.

The alternative would have been to let her die and hope the baby would live, and I could raise him or her alone. We never had to make that choice. Thank God my children will never be faced with that situation as long as we have the John Porters of this country representing us.

Yes, we old-timers had many friends maimed or die because abortion was against the law, and we had no choice.

As for those radical few, I remind you that George Bush was fired by the women of this country over this very issue. The majority want the right to choose, and it is Porter's responsibility to respect and represent that restricted right as he has done in the past. I urge you to support him March 19 in the Republican primary.

Students appreciate learning 'underground railroad' ties

STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

"My friends in high school used to call me a 'history hound'," James

Dorsey recalled.
The College of Lake County professor told fifth-grade students of the day he became interested in his African-American heritage.

"My father took me aside one day and told me about slavery," Dorsey said.

The author of a book on the subject told Woodland Intermediate School students about the nature of the underground railroad.

Students learned the railroad was in name only - it was more of a network of places to hide slaves who were seeking freedom. Students found different portions of Dorsey's talk interesting.

"How the slaves went back and forth and how they gave their lives for freedom," Jordan Kramer said.

Dorsey praised the Gages Lake school for its consideration of black history and the underground railroad. Each year, students go on a tour of known sites in Lake County - Lake Zurich to Ivanhoe to Mother Rudd's Tavern in Gurnee and Millburn Congregational Church.

"There were a number of towns which were very abolitionist. Lake Forest had a number of abolitionists and there was a strong feeling in Kenosha and Racine, Wis. One time when a man in federal court in Milwaukee, John Glover, was sent to prison, people from Racine came and broke him out of jail," Dorsey told the social studies class.

The "underground railroad" network included a series of hiding places in the western suburbs and along the Illinois rivers such as the Wabash. Students throughout Lake County are studying black history this month as it is Black History Month.

In Lake County, known hiding places included churches in Ivanhoe and Millburn and homes in Waukegan. Further north, safe havens could be found in Bristol, Walworth and Somers, Wis. Slaves traveled through Illinois on the Great Lakes on the way to Canada because the route left no trace. They may begin in Collingswood, Canada and then go over the top of Lake Michigan and end their journey in Evanston or Chicago.

"The term "underground railroad" was symbolic. There was a conductor who would let people on and off, and the stations would be hiding places such as caves, houses and barns," Dorsey said. "Trains and box cars and stage coaches and wagons were also used."

Hiding a run-away slave brought fines and imprisonment for those caught. Male slaves seeking freedom came from the east while the female slaves were often of southern heritage.

'A lot of time is spent on discussing not as popular or well known African Americans in Chicago and Illinois - not just King and Malcom X.'

—Jason Jecman,
social studies teacher,
Warren Township High School

Slavery existed as nearby as salt mines in eastern Illinois - in all places. Equality, Ill.

Dorsey liked to visit museums as a youngster, and said the students today are living history.

Students learned of important local African-Americans such as Asa Joice, the first black elected official in Fremont Township and of Sara Jermima Joice and the Amos Bennett family in the Gurnee area, who settled in about 1840.

Woodland Intermediate Principal Larry Johnson said the students enjoyed Darcey's talk.

Reports by students on famous African-Americans such as Frederick Douglas and Martin Luther King were on display at the school's open house last week.

High school instructors have different approaches to the now mandated month-long topic.

"A lot of time is spent on discussing not as popular or well known African Americans in Chicago and Illinois - not just King and Malcom X," Jason Jecman, social studies teacher at Warren Township High School, said.

"It helps bring about a higher awareness made on society not only of African-Americans, but all Americans," he said.

Teacher Bob Tatgenhorst, another WTHS staffer, said the main methods of instruction include projects, speakers and research.

"We would trace the origins of African-Americans and the institution of slavery and the moral issues. Equality was not gained until the second Civil Rights movement of the 1960s," Tegenhorst said.

Tatgenhorst said his among his favorites were N.E.B. Dubois, who started the NAACP.

END RUNS! Challenge: Find a three-letter word that complies with letter endings shown to form seven longer words in each instance at right. In No. 1, for example, try the word "can."

It produces candy and cane, but bogs down with the addition of d. In No. 2, try the word "tar." It serves to produce tarry, tare and tart, but that's all. Can you find a three-letter word to run the gamut in each? No fair peeking below.

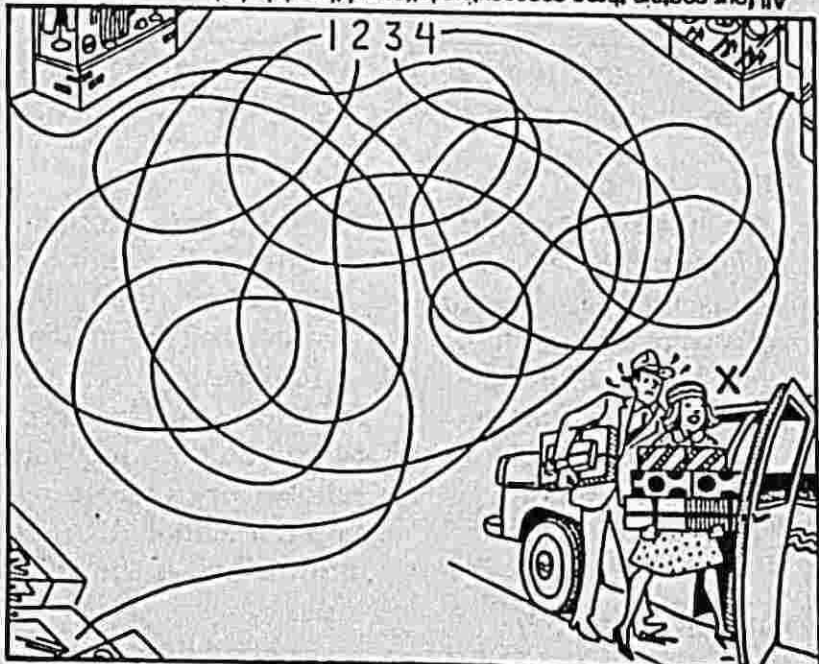

LIKE SO! All four of these words — defog, worst, canopy, studio — have the letter o in common. Can you find another more intricate similarity that they share?

Vacation photography tips for the amateur

by JIM WARNKEN,
PRESIDENT, NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

If you're into things like f-stops, focal lengths, shutter speeds etc., this article is not for you. If, however, you prefer the "one button does all" type of camera and most of your picture taking is done on vacation, you may find the following tips helpful.

Let's start by pulling out the vacation pictures from last year's trip to Disney World. Now, put the ones you find really interesting in one pile and the boring ones in another.

I'll bet the interesting shots include things like the look of joy (or fear) on little Bobby's face the first time he saw that six foot tall Mouse. Or maybe it's the shot of Dawn staring up in wonder at Cinderella's Castle.

Included in the boring stack are probably the view from the hotel window or various general shots of the park.

So, what's the difference between the pictures we like and those which we can't even remember why we took?

It's called a "center of interest". In other words, interesting pictures usually include a person, object, or some action, upon which the picture is based. This is not the shot of the family standing under the sign "Welcome to Disney World". The best pictures are not posed. Some sort of action also brings life to pictures.

Some minor technical advice. I've found film speed of ASA 200 to be a good choice for most vacation photos. It can also make several passes through airport security machines with no damage.

One accessory you might want to purchase is a polarized filter. Among other things, it will allow you to take pictures through windows without getting reflections.

Remember, a well planned photograph is more important than $500 camera.

Unsolved family mysteries are everywhere

I really can't understand what it is about our current First Lady that causes so many folks to dislike her. All right, so she doesn't have the fashion sense of Jackie Kennedy. And she has yet to write a cute book about the First Cat, Socks, ala Barbara Bush and her dog, Millie. But you've got to give her credit—at least she doesn't give her husband astrological advice, like Nancy Reagan. ("Uh, oh, Ronnie—the moon is in Pisces. It's not a good day for introducing your new policy—what's it called again?—oh, yes, tinkle-down economics.")

Perhaps her biggest mistake has been her inability to cover up the fact that she is an intelligent, successful career woman, which despite all those Virginia Slims ads touting how we've "come a long way, baby," still seems to be synonymous with that word that rhymes with itch. And this obvious intelligence has worked to her disadvantage again recently, when she was called before a Whitewater federal grand jury to testify about the mysterious reappearance of her missing law-firm billing records. In answer to their questioning, she stated what she has said before: "I do not know how the billing records came to be found where they were found."

Hillary's statement makes the good old boys in Washington laugh out loud. They want to know how they're supposed to believe that Ms. Smarty Pants, who knows a great deal about a lot of other things, doesn't know how these records reappeared. Leave it to me, a normal(?), everyday, average citizen to have to explain it to them. What these folks on Capitol Hill are forgetting is that Hillary, despite her obvious cookie-baking shortcomings, is a mother and a member of the First Family. And anyone with half a brain and one or more children (it's hard to say which comes first—the half a brain or the children) knows that within every family, there are mysteries for which there are no answers. The unexplained and the inexplicable. The unknown and the "I don't know." These strange occurrences are known throughout the world as...UNSOLVED FAMILY MYSTERIES.

Which makes me think that Hillary's persecutors are not spending enough time at home with their own wives and children. If they were, they would have instantly recognized that this so-called Whitewater "scandal" is actually quite similar to the following UNSOLVED FAMILY MYSTERY No. 45:

The "How did THAT get in my room?" Mystery

Her teenage son is not at home. Mom enters his room with a broom and gas mask. While sweeping dust-balls the size of New Jersey from underneath his bed, she discovers a magazine that features a naked woman with a staple in her navel. When the teenage son returns home, Mom confronts him with her discovery.

Mom: "Look what I found. Can you tell me where THIS came from?"

Son: "THAT? How did THAT get in my room?"

Mom: "You have no idea how THIS got under your bed?"

Son: "No. I don't know how THAT got there."

She asks her husband the same question. He doesn't know either, but he is willing to take a look at it just to make sure.

There. I hope that this clears things up for you folks on Capitol Hill. No need to continue wasting any more time and tax money. Besides, what are you really trying to prove with this whole Whitewater mess? That the Clintons profited personally from their political/corporate connections?

Gee whiz, I hope not! It might start a trend in Washington. Next thing you know, everyone will be doing it.

Redeye Express brings out the best

Redeye Express, one of Lake County's favorite R&B bands, hosts jam sessions at Kristoff's in Round Lake Beach every Tuesday, Paradise Beach Club in Round Lake Beach every Thursday, and at Yacht-Seas in Fox Lake the second Tuesday of every month. Everyone is invited to participate. Bring your instrument, voice, jokes, or cheer on the jammers.

Redeye Express has invested a lot of money and effort in perfecting their sound. I had the opportunity to hear their new sound at their weekly jam session at Kristoff's last week. They have always sounded good; now they sound great! According to John Linczmaier, the group's founder, "Our goal this year is to provide the audience with the highest quality sound possible." After hearing them last week, I can guarantee there won't be any room on the dance floor. Their raw talent and sound won't let you sit down.

John is joined by Sonny Sloan on bass (formerly of Janis Joplin's band, Big Brother and the Holding Company) and Aaron Herman on guitar. Redeye Express will be at Ye Olde Town Inn, Mount Prospect (392-3750) on March 2.

Movie Pick

'Broken Arrow,' 'Speed' without a bus?

To start with, both "Broken Arrow" and last year's blockbuster suspense action thriller "Speed" were directed by the dynamic John Woo. Then we have the fact that Christian Slater and Keanu Reeves are almost interchangeable for the part of Air Force Capt. Riley Hale. Well, while we will admit that Slater is cute, Reeves was a more sexy action hero.

To top things off, both Samantha Mathis, "Arrow's" heroine, and Sandra Bullock have reddish brown hair.

"Arrow" has no speeding bus set to explode, instead there's a low flying Stealth bomber loaded with nuclear weapons, a speeding train, also loaded with nukes, and sundry helicopters flitting here and there and also exploding and crashing here and there.

The resemblances had us thinking we had "Speed II" on our hands at first, but the differences soon came at a fast and furious pace.

"Arrow's" plot, an Air Force major (John Travolta) stealing two nuclear warheads and holding the southwest part of the good old USA hostage, threatening to make it "a very quiet place for the next 10,000 years," in lieu of zillions of dollars, is much grander premise than just holding the passengers of one little old bus.

Travolta has his moments as the villain, but his innate personality is just too charming to make his portrayal of the maniacal Vic Deakins anywhere as dislikeable as Dennis Hopper's crazy menace in "Speed." He was more of a enjoyable villain like Jack Nicholson was in the first "Batman."

All Bullock had to do to save her bus world was to drive the cumbersome vehicle like Mario Andretti, while Mathis is asked to perform impossible feats above and beyond the duty and capability of most forest rangers.

Slater, who plays Travolta's honest buddy who has to go after

his friend and save Arizona, Colorado, Utah, New Mexico, etc., is OK in his heroic role, although he too is called upon to perform feats worthy of our caped hero from Krypton. His military clean-cut looks have him more attractive than he was in some of his more recent scuzzy roles, but somehow he's just too light weight to dominate the insane Travolta. So I guess we'll have to wait for the negotiations for "Speed II" to be successful to see that sequel.

Meanwhile back in the dessert, "Arrow" does have its interesting and exciting parts, even though this is another case of the promos showing the best parts of the movie.

"Arrow," which carries an "R" rating mainly because of all the mayhem, gets 3.5 out of five stars from us.—by GLORIA DAVIS

Horoscope

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) This week has you in line for some important social opportunities that you should take advantage of. A tendency to withdraw into yourself could plague you around midweek. This could impair relations with a close partner.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A private talk early in the week relates to a financial opportunity you're considering taking advantage of. Home-based activities are particularly rewarding later in the week. However, a matter from work is still troubling you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Although long-range prospects look good now, there's an immediate money situation that could give you cause for concern early in the week. At work, talks with higher-ups are a plus. It seems they are finally able to see what you're saying.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You begin the week in a chipper mood. Tact and diplomacy, though, must be utilized in your dealings with a close friend. Try to avoid being overly critical of this person's behavior. Accent what you have in common instead.

loved one is rewarding as you finally ascertain what's been bothering this person. Mixed trends could affect your financial picture.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) This week brings positive business and financial developments, but you could also have your hands full with a domestic concern. Dealings with children in particular can be very touchy now. This weekend, an appliance could break down.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Your intuition is strong now with your significant other. Early in the week, you have luck with a creative endeavor which has been evading you. A child has good news to share. This weekend, a travel plan is subject to change.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) You could be asked to assume a leadership role in connection with a group activity early in the week. Inspiration you receive now could be tomorrow's creative accomplishment. This weekend, it's best to stick close to home.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Opportunities arise in business this week. Those working on a freelance basis could receive important assignments. Major shopping for the home is favored later in the week. A family matter is of some concern.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Mix-ups are possible concerning news which arrives from a distance. Couples make happy plans together for a special romantic vacation. A problem could arise later in the week in connection with a friendship.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Your judgment is right on the money this week regarding career interests. Keep the lines of communication open with a close partner. This weekend, avoid worry and second-guessing yourself.

The Silo has the best pizzas in the county

The Silo in Lake Bluff is the place to go for a sumptuous pizza feast. The Silo is famous for having the "best pizza around" attested to by the accolades which have The Silo receiving votes for having the best pan pizza on the North Shore from the Chicago Tribune. Chicago Magazine dubbed the Silo's pizza "a superior version of Chicago style pan pizza."

The great variety of assorted pizza delights awaiting customers of The Silo include supreme, vegetarian, seafood, taco, spinach soufflé, and Frisco, as well as grilled garlic chicken and a cheeseless fresh vegetable grill. If diehards are not satisfied with these complete pizzas, they can load on extra sausage, mushrooms, pepperoni, ground beef, bacon, Canadian bacon, ham, pineapple, anchovies, black olives, onions, green peppers, jalapeno peppers, fresh garlic, sliced tomatoes, broccoli, zucchini, yellow squash, and of course, extra cheese.

With all pizza connoisseurs guaranteed royal treatment, it would be a mistake to assume that The Silo is merely a pizza place. The restaurant has a full menu that includes baby back ribs, four chicken breast dishes, seven pasta dishes, seven varieties of baked potatoes, 22 sandwich choices, 16 appetizers, six choices of soups and salads, and some heart-healthy servings.

Every Sunday evening from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m., the whole family can be entertained by Tom "BOZ" The Magician. BOZ has appeared on Bozo's Circus, NBC TV, Fox TV, and at Chicago's Pump Room.

The family owned restaurant has developed a warm atmosphere for dining and the staff is highly service oriented and more importantly, very friendly. Their loft affords ample banquet space for large groups.

The Silo, located at 625 Rockland Road (Rte. 176), in Lake Bluff, is open 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Mon. through Thurs., 11 a.m. to 12 midnight Fri. and Sat., and 4 to 10 p.m. Sundays. Their phone is (847)234-6660.

Thanks to the community, Mers celebrates 38 years

Mers Restaurant in Wauconda, a successful family-owned eatery, invites everyone to come in to help Rosemary and son, Robert, celebrate 38 years of bringing fine dining experiences to those in the Wauconda area.

For chicken lovers, Mers presents a variety of chicken dishes including Chicken Parmesan, topped with marinara sauce, Parmesan and Mozzarella cheese and served with pasta, for only $10.95. Every night a different fresh seafood special is featured.

Mers is also one of the few restaurants that still has daily specials at reasonable prices, without letting their culinary quality suffer. All specials include the scrumptious salad bar and soup. On Sunday, roast chicken with sage dressing is the special at $8.95; and on Monday, it's NY Strip Steak and grilled shrimp at $10.95.

Closed on Tuesdays, the Wednesday special is all-you-can-eat fried Walleye for $9.95; on Thursday its Mers famous juicy prime rib for $9.95, and on Friday, dinner is all-you-can-eat fried perch for $6.50 or BBQ beef ribs, all you can eat at $8.95.

Mers is well-known for its tantalizing Sunday brunch from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Choose from an inviting assortment of 14 hot breakfast selections, or order a custom-made omelet. The brunch also features a salad bar and a tempting pastry table. All this is priced at $8.95 for adults and $5.95 for children 10 and under.

Also on Sunday, from 2 to 5 p.m., senior citizens can enjoy specials that feature an entree, glass of wine and dessert for $7.95. On Saturday evenings, stop by to enjoy relaxed entertainment in the lounge.

Mers Restaurant is carved out of an old stagecoach stop on the shores of Bangs Lake, and it has been a traditional fixture in Wauconda since 1906. ## Thacker

"It was a hobby I did on the side," Thacker said. "I believe in the causes that I get involved with. My involvement is as an activist." Thacker says he believes the Republican party represents the ideas of mainstream Americans and their hopes and concerns better than the Democratic party.

"The Republican Party represents the values my parents instilled in me," Thacker said. "The work ethic is the value of every individual out there. I want to see more than a Republican in office, I want a conservative Republican Party."

During the primary campaign, Manzullo defeated Jack Schaeffer, a 20-year state senator who decided to make a run for a seat in the beltway. In the general election, he defeated Democrat John Cox, the incumbent.

"It was the same idea that we have in the Salvi campaign," Thacker said. "Schaeffer represented politics as usual and Manzullo represented a change; the same is true for Bob Kustra and Al Salvi. Kustra is politics as usual and Al is an idea man with a new vision."

There are other similarities between the Manzullo campaign and the Salvi campaign.

"Manzullo was not supported by any of the elected Republican officials or party regulars," said Thacker. "In fact, most of them called for him to get out of the race."

Thacker says Manzullo was also outspent more than 5 to 1 in the race.

"Al has the support of his county party chairman John Schulien even if he doesn't have the support of many of the party's leaders," said Thacker. "I don't believe that necessarily hurts him. There is a great deal of support amongst committeemen and volunteers who are out speaking for Al and gathering support for him. Kustra touts his endorsements but the only real endorsement that counts is that of the voters on March 19th."

Before accepting the position as Al Salvi's campaign manager last fall, the Woodstock native, met and spoke to Bob Kustra.

"Al Salvi is an idea guy," Thacker said. "I researched Kustra's policies and voting record and found I didn't agree with him. It is not the record of mainstream Republicans."

Thacker supports Salvi because he believes in what Salvi has to say.

"I like his ideas and I think they are very much in sync with the ideas of voters," said Thacker. "I don't believe voters will agree with the voting record of Bob Kustra on most issues. He is very liberal."

Thacker believes voters today are looking for a change and a fresh face.

"Change doesn't come from people who have built a career out of politics," said Thacker. "It is a combination of accepting him and rejecting the ideas of his opponent."

Congressman Manzullo feels Thacker is a very talented and focused person.

"He was absolutely instrumental in my getting elected to Congress," said Manzullo, who was a practicing lawyer at the time of his election. "Jim has the ability to focus on the issues and bring those out in a campaign."

Manzullo sought a seat in Congress because he was mad at the direction the country was taking. He is remaining neutral in the senate race.

Thacker guided Manzullo to a primary victory where he captured 56 percent of the vote. He was one of only 10 Republicans elected to Congress in 1992. In 1994, in his first reelection bid, he captured 71 percent of the vote.

Party regulars can only sit back and wonder how well, Al Salvi will do under Thacker's leadership.

Shiatsu Bodyworks clears away harmful stress

CLAUDIA M. LENART

Regional Editor

Too much stress is widely-recognized as the source of many physical ailments. Back in the '70s Wataru Ohashi developed a type of Shiatsu bodywork designed to relieve stress and promote holistic wellness.

As society has developed technologically, people have drastically "lost touch." This dichotomy causes stress and tension.

— Ohashi

Sharon Fullington, of Wildwood, is bringing the healthful benefits of this style of Shiatsu to area residents at her new office, Shiatsu Bodyworks, located in downtown Libertyville.

"All illness stems from stress on the body. We live in a stressful world and when stress becomes too much, there is a physical manifestation," said the soft-spoken Fullington.

Fullington learned her craft at the Ohashiatsu® School in Evanston. She is also a graduate of the College of Lake County with a degree in addiction counseling.

"All of my life I've been a seeker of the big questions. As I grew up I was always interested in the mind/body/spirit connection," said Fullington.

Fullington explained Shiatsu works on the mind/body/spirit connection through the body's meridians. According to ancient Oriental theory, there are 14 meridians, or energy channels, which run through the body and connect to the organs. Shiatsu improves the balance of energy throughout the meridians by stimulating pressure points called tsubos. The technique is similar to acupuncture, using pressure instead of needles.

Shiatsu bodyworks combines the acupressure technique with yoga-assisted stretches, conscious breathing and flowing body manipulations.

Fullington explained the meridians are like rivers running through the body.

"If the river is always flowing, the body is keeping in balance. If the river is blocked because of stress, the energy gets stuck and the balance is upset. All the rivers flow into each other, so if there is blockage in one river, it affects the other rivers," she said.

A one-hour session at Shiatsu bodyworks begins with an explanation of the process as well as a dialogue which includes concerns and questions. This is followed by the actual bodywork performed on a futon with the client wearing loose comfortable clothing.

Fullington starts at the hara (abdominal area) with touch and gentle pressure, looking for any areas of blockage and trying to determine which meridians to See SHIATSU page C2

Internet users find a world of savings in time, money

The demand for Internet connections was evident as soon as the service went on line last August, according to Corky Gross, manager of Lakeland's netDirect in Grayslake.

"It began to blossom fairly quickly soon after we went up," he said. "We also found there was a need for web pages."

The Internet access service proved to be so popular netDirect has added more equipment and a 33.6 modem to handle the growing demand. The company serves not only businesses and private citizens but schools, villages and chambers of commerce. Periodic seminars offer training on using the service for maximum benefit.

"We're getting quite a cross-section of customers," said Gross.

For businesses, the use of e-mail is a monumental movement, said Gross. Communications are more private than faxes, but can be printed or saved.

"There's a lot they can do with it," he said. "It's a cost-effective way to do business."

Schools have found netDirect's service easy to use for their students. Customers include Lake Villa Elementary District 41 and Fox Lake Elementary District 114 as well as Round Lake High School. Other schools have made inquiries, he said.

Villages and chambers like the idea of a home page that can provide information and access to other data. Village administrators can share information with resident users and also find e-mail a valuable communication tool.

"Everybody's got their address," said Gross. "As each day goes by there is more and more information that is going out on the Internet."

When prospective residents are considering a move to a particular community, for example, they can find out all about a village via the Internet. With e-mail they can ask questions immediately instead of dealing with the U.S. mail or answering machines. Colleges list available scholarships, there's information on income tax preparation, and comparison shoppers will find their task easier.

For netDirect customers, a flat fee of $25 a month will allow unlimited use of the entire Internet. National services offer only selected sites, Gross said.

"There's an absolute world of information, education and entertainment out there that will satisfy anyone's personal taste," he said. "It's mind-boggling as to what can be done with this. As each day goes by more and more goes on [the Internet]."

ALRA plans appeal

GURNEE—An appeal will be sought by ALRA Laboratories in response to the decision rendered by a jury on 18 of the 36 counts against the company and its two of its officers. The defendants were found innocent on 14 counts and the jury was unable to reach a decision on 4 counts. The products determined adulterated by the jury include three batches of Lactulose syrup manufactured in 1988 and 1989 and one batch of K-plus-10 manufactures in 1989. All batches have long since expired and none are currently on the market. ALRA continues to hold valid licenses and permits from the state and federal government for the manufacturing and marketing of its entire product line. While the company's main focus will be to overturn the decision. It is also considering the possibility of merger or acquisition in order to remain a viable supplier of generic pharmaceuticals. in the communities they serve for the 21st Century," Hebbard said.

Hebbard managed the inside display advertising sales department, legal, entertainment and cooperative advertising sales teams as well as serving as the corporate sales trainer for the Alameda Newspaper Group.

"I believe in 'needs-based' selling, a customer-driven approach to selling advertising," Hebbard said. "I love making sales calls and I look forward to being out in the community to meet and work with our advertisers."

Hebbard is a native of California, born and raised in the Pasadena area. This is the fifth newspaper group she has worked at during her career. She has also had extensive public speaking experience.

"I have had several opportunities to discuss advertising and look forward to doing the same here in Lake County," Hebbard said.

Hebbard believes the key to successful advertising is to develop a series of ads that together represent a campaign designed to achieve top of mind awareness for the advertiser. "Advertisers need to build market share in a prospective client's mind so when a customer is ready to make a purchase, that store is on their shopping list," Hebbard said. "I will be working with Lakeland Newspapers' advertisers to make them even more successful."

Hebbard is married to Douglas B. Hebbard, who is the publisher of Roads and Bridges Magazine, a Scranton-Gillette communications publication based in Des Plaines. They have a daughter, Bridget, 4, who attends Peppermint Pre-school in Grayslake.

Roselle Love has been employed at Lakeland Newspapers for eight years, having started as a typesetter; she served as layout coordinator in her last position. As composition manager, Love has the responsibility for ensuring the high quality production of Lakeland Newspapers' 13 community weeklies, the Great Lakes Bulletin and the Market Journal as well as special advertising sections.

"I'm looking forward to meeting the new challenges of my position as we continue to grow as a company," said Love. "I will be working to ensure Lakeland Newspaper's products continue to be of the highest quality."

Love, a Lindenhurst resident, grew up in Park Ridge, Ill. She has two sons, Randy, a freshman at the University of Illinois and Michael, a junior at Antioch Community High School.

Lackey, a resident of Round Lake Beach, has been with Lakeland Newspapers for nearly seven years. She has been responsible for the production of ads and supervising the photographic dark room. She has been promoted to assistant production manager.

"I'm looking forward to the challenges of my new position," Lackey said. "I'm thrilled to be continuing my career in the newspaper business with Lakeland Newspapers."

Lackey is married to Don Lackey. They have one child, Donny, 13.

work. The bodywork includes gentle pressure, stretches, rocking and flowing yoga movements, leaving the client feeling very relaxed and refreshed. The session ends with resting and suggestions, if needed.

"The whole experience is a good feeling," said Scott Black, one of Fullington's clients. "It's like taking a nap, waking up and being revitalized."

Black, a Highland Park musician who plays bass, went to Fullington to help with tendinitis in his thumb. He hurt his thumb playing golf and a series of visits to doctors and cortisone shots did not help. He started seeing a homeopath who recommended Shiatsu. The alternative healing methods have helped him; he is playing bass and hopes to be able to tee off again by spring.

Karen Livasy, an Antioch resident, was also able to overcome a physical ailment, ganglioncyst, fluid and pain in her wrist, with the help of Fullington. She said her doctor was considering surgery and was skeptical at first, but when he saw she was managing her pain, he told her to continue with the alternative methods.

Livasy was referred by her marriage counselor. Over a period of two years, the Shiatsu bodywork has helped Livasy overcome the stress and related headaches she has experienced while going through a divorce.

"It's my personal time to relax, to help clear my head and think more rationally, so I'm not so overwhelmed," said Livasy. "It has really helped me a lot."

Another enthusiastic client of Fullington's is Stephanie Waldie of Round Lake Beach. Waldie first started seeing Fullington to learn relaxation techniques. "She's been helpful in a million ways," said Waldie.

When Waldie became pregnant with her second child, she continued to receive bodywork and asked Fullington to assist in the delivery.

"The birth of my daughter was totally different from the birth of my son. I didn't experience hardly any pain until the last contraction," said Waldie.

One of Fullington's specialties is pregnant women. The Shiatsu technique helps pregnant women relax, easing the pain and stress, and helping to make delivery easier. Fullington is the mother of three girls.

Fullington, along with Candis Burkett, of Wauconda, will be holding a series of pregnancy workshops, called Moon River, starting in April. The classes will discuss relaxation, parenting, breastfeeding and how to interact with doctors.

"Often during pregnancy, women feel powerless. We'll teach them how to talk to doctors and ask questions so they're in control of their pregnancy," said Fullington.

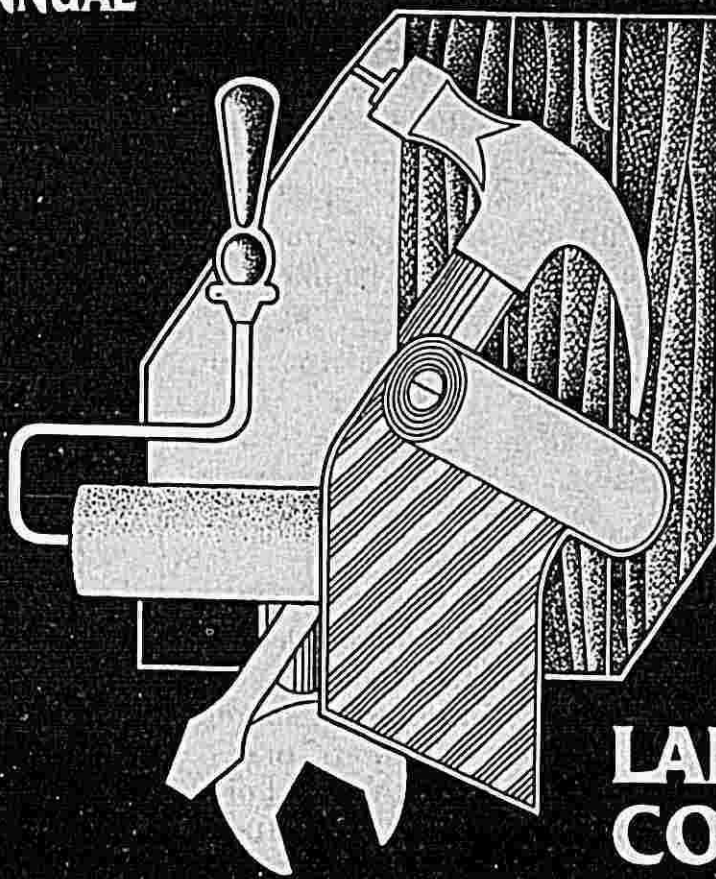

Shiatsu bodyworks will also hold an open house from 1 to 4 p.m., March 3. Fullington and Burkett will give 10-minute hands-on demonstrations and explain the bodywork and technique. The office is located at 506 N. Milwaukee Ave., 2E, on the corner of Cook and Milwaukee in Libertyville. For more information call 680-9013.

How To Survive The Job Search
By Nancy Sakol

Q: Dear...Search: I am employed in the Marketing Department of a Fortune 500 company. While my company is located in California, I am located in a sales office in Lake County. As one of the new guys on the block, and still wet behind the ears, I ran into a situation and am asking for your opinion. In a recent tele-meeting it was told to several co-workers and myself that we will be attending a conference out of state and all information will be forwarded to us individually. In receiving my information I was surprised to find out that our company was having this conference in an Arizona Resort and then it came to my attention that almost everyone who was to be attending was bringing a spouse. While I am not married, I am engaged to be married in eight months. I am having a difficult time explaining this to my significant other. This conference is scheduled for mid-April and I don't know if I should approach my boss about it or just accept it for the way it is. I don't wish to put my job in jeopardy, but as you can see, I am caught in the middle. What can you suggest? I would appreciate a quick response if possible. K.F. - Vernon Hills

A: Dear K.F. I hope this helps you. You say that almost everyone on the list of attendees is bringing a spouse. I take it that means that there were no boyfriends, girlfriends or live-ins listed. Your situation and question is not an uncommon one. Many large corporations have strict policies surrounding corporate travel. One of those policies is "spouses only" where functions like these are concerned. I would attend solo as expected and not take it personally. Once you are among others in your company, you are sure to meet those who are more in tune with the ropes of your company and probably in the same position. You will most likely get the drift of the situation and be able to accept it for what it is. Eight months from now when you've tied the knot you will likely make "the list" of those in your position attending conferences and conventions with their spouses. This may be a good opportunity for you, the new guy to get to know more about the company by being around those who do know the ropes. Do a lot of observing and a lot of listening.

Q: Dear...Search: I have been working for eight years. I was wondering where the social security goes for me. Is there an actual account with my name on it and how do I find out how much I have saved up? M.C. - Waukegan

A: Dear M.C. Contact your local Social Security Administration Office. In your case it is in Waukegan.

Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee. Letters can be sent to Nancy at 4949 Grand Ave., Gurnee, IL 60031.

Crystal ball works OT for tourney picks

Will Warren High's team make a repeat performance and make back to the Lake County championship game?

Will 3,000 plus fans be attending the March 8 game at Waukegan East High's gym seeing a thriller like the Mundelein-Libertyville clash a few years back?

Will Fox Valley Conference co-leader Lake Zurich bring its success east?

And finally is there a sleeper out there among the bottom eight, ready to catch the hearts of basketball fans with a regional title?

All those questions and more will begin to be answered Feb. 26 as the Class AA boys Waukegan sectional kicks off.

Here's our look at the first-round clashes, with the highest seeded team in parentheses, records before games of Feb. 20:

Mundelein (1-23, 0-13 North Suburban Conference) at Wauconda (9-14, 5-9) in a preliminary round game Feb. 26.

Place: Wauconda High.

Game time: 7:30 p.m.

Leading scorers: Wauconda (No. 16), John Lindsey, 19 points per game; Mundelein - Kyle McCarthy 22 points per game. Winner gets top seeded Deerfield in the next round.

"We'll have to play them eventually anyway," WHS Coach Don Pieper said.

Keys to game: Mundelein will have to try and slowdown Lindsey. Bulldogs cannot take Mustangs lightly.

Tuesday, Feb. 27 games:

Waukegan (No. 8) vs. Round Lake (No. 9).

Time: 7:30 p.m.

Records: Waukegan 11-10 overall, 6-3 Central Suburban League; Round Lake (15-10 overall, 12-2 NWSC).

Top scorers: Round Lake, Robert Moore, 20 points per game. Waukegan, Ronyale Hardeman and Mark Copeland, guards.

Keys to game: If Round Lake can continue its momentum gained by a Northwest Suburban Conference title. John Stockwell, the county's top three-point shooter, needs to have a strong game.

North Chicago at Lake Zurich.

Time: 7:30 p.m.

Records: North Chicago (10-15, 5-9 NSC); Lake Zurich (18-5, 11-1 Fox Valley Conference).

Top scorers: Lake Zurich (No. 5) Jimmy Roberts, 12 points per game and Thor Solverson, 20 points per game. North Chicago: Yotoy McCo.

Keys to game: North Chicago (No. 12) will try and force turnovers, something the Bears do not do very often.

Wednesday, Feb. 28

Carmel at Warren

Game time: 7:30 p.m.

Team records: Warren (17-6, 13-1 NSC); Carmel (6-16, 2-11 ESCC).

Top scorers: Warren: Maurice Foster (18 points per game) and Luke Moo (17 points per game); Carmel, Mike Graham, 17 points per game.

Keys to game: Warren (No. 2 seed) cannot look past improving Carmel (No. 15 seed) team. Foster's three-pointers will be a test for CHS.

Antioch at Highland Park

Game time: 7:30 p.m.

Team records: Antioch 12-13 overall, 6-8 NSC; Highland Park (10-14).

Keys to game: Antioch (No. 10) must continue to play strong defense to gain revenge for opening night loss to Highland Park (No. 7).

Grayslake at Libertyville

Game time: 7:30 p.m.

Team records: Grayslake 6-19 overall, 6-8 NWSC; Libertyville 19-6, 11-3 NSC.

Top scorers: Grayslake, Brian Witt, Luke Kron; Libertyville, Lukas McKnight, 16 ppg.; Tim Beschel, 12.4 ppg.

Keys to game: Libertyville (No. 3 seed) should be able to use most of, if not all of its team against the lowly Rams. The Rams have had a dismal season, with injuries and academic woes of late.

Grant at Lake Forest

Game time: 7:30 p.m.

Team records: Lake Forest 17-7, 7-6; Grant 13-11 10-4 NWSC.

Top scorers: Grant, Mike Nelson, 17 points per game; Lake Forest, Ed Cage.

Keys to game: Grant's Scott Lanners and Brian Mikels should find the range from three-point land. Lake Forest cannot look past NWSC team it defeated at Christmas.

Stevenson at Zion-Benton

Team records: Stevenson 8-17, 5-8 NSC; Zion 18-7, 8-4 NSC.

Top scorers: Stevenson Dan Brown, 15 points per game. Zion, Manassdh Stackhouse.

Keys to game: Stevenson has been beset by injuries and inexperience this year but playing well as of late.

Well, there you have it. All the teams, with the exception of Johnsburg, the last seed at Rockford Boylan in a Feb. 27 game.

Our crystal ball sees Deerfield vs. Round Lake, Lake Zurich vs. Zion-Benton and Warren vs. Antioch and Libertyville vs. Lake Forest in regional final clashes on March 1. Those contests will be played at highest seed teams' gyms for the right for sectional semi-final status March 5 and 6.

That's right, a post-season upset by the Panthers, the NWSC, the "no respect" league champs. Don't forget that Grayslake team in 1994 made it to Waukegan.

Gambit may lead Foresters women to playoffs next year

Natalie Gambit's effort for Lake Forest College against Lawrence College may be noted as one of the most efficient in LFC women's basketball history.

Gambit, a sophomore, contributed the following in just 17 minutes of an 86-62 LFC romp: 1 of 3 field goal shooting; 5 of 7 at the free-throw line; 6 rebounds (3 on each end); 7 points; 4 assists and yes, she threw in a steal for good measure.

"We started out slow, but then we got intense," Gambit said.

A graduate of Richmond-Burton High who was helping the Rockets to an Elite Eight showing two years ago, Gambit had her freshman season cut short by injury. She comes in as the first substitute for Coach Jackie Slaats' squad.

"I go in and play the three, four or five positions," Gambit said.

The Foresters' effort was not challenged after the first half lead of 46-28. The 16-7 record left the team just a couple of wins shy of advancing to the Midwest Conference playoffs.

"We played a great game to end the year. It was sad it has to end. It was a good way for the seniors to go out and we will try and build for next year," Slaats said.

"We will be in the conference playoffs next year," Gambit promised.

Gambit came into the second half three minutes into the session and scored her first points on free throws. She made a nice cross-court pass to senior Toby Wood for a 63-45 LFC lead. Her layup came as LFC was pulling away to a 24-point margin.

Gambit, who attended Carmel High School before her family moved to Spring Grove, is also on the volleyball team at LFC. She is a biology major. She averaged 4.2 points and 2.8 rebounds a game last year. Her best was 12 points and seven assists against Beloit.

On the team as a reserve role is Tiffany Gutraj. The freshman from Grayslake was called up from the junior varsity.

Bulls sponsor recreation tourney

On Feb. 24, a special boys basketball tournament sponsored by the Illinois Park and Recreation Association and the Chicago Bulls. The tournament will be held at the Grayslake High School from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in both gymnasiums. The tournament will have 16 teams in four grade divisions and the winners will make a trip to a Chicago Bulls game to play the winners of another tournament.

The Grayslake Park District will have four teams in the tournament and will be playing host to the tournament.

Grant challenges Bears in finale

If the first-round tourney contest is this exciting, Grant High basketball fans should plan on making the trip to Lake Forest.

The Scouts traveled to Fox Lake Tuesday and handed the Bulldogs a 67-60 non-conference loss. The defeat was not settled until the final seconds.

Grant (11-13) had a three-pointer in the final minute to tie the game, but Brian Mikels's shot from a sideline play fell off the rim.

Mikels led the Grant effort with 17 points while guard Jason Loring had 13 as did center Mike Nelson.

"I told the kids to play tough defense and have pride in the last home game and you will have a chance to win. It was a great game," Grant Coach Tom Maple said.

"Free throws were our demise. We were 9-of-21," Maple added.

Jason Jacobs was the main thorn in the side of Grant as he scored 19 points with five three-pointers.

Lake Zurich shoots for its share of the Fox Valley Conference title as it is at Jacobs on Feb. 26.

"Jacobs had four three-pointers in the second half - they were just dropping," Lake Zurich Coach John Zarr said.

Leading scorer for the season, Jimmy Roberts (22 points a game) scored 17 points before leaving the game with a slightly twisted ankle.

The final night of the regular season was one for one-point finishes.

Johnsburg notched its seventh win of the year with a 65-64 overtime win over Wauconda. Bill DeVoy scored 18 points as the Skyhawks won their second straight league game. Wauconda (9-14, 5-9) was boosted by John Lindsey's 25 points.

Stevenson (8-18, 5-9 NSC) scored 26 points in a fourth quarter comeback but could not topple North Chicago in a 75-74 win. Leading scorer Dan Brown had 20 points and Ryan Keller 18 for SHS.

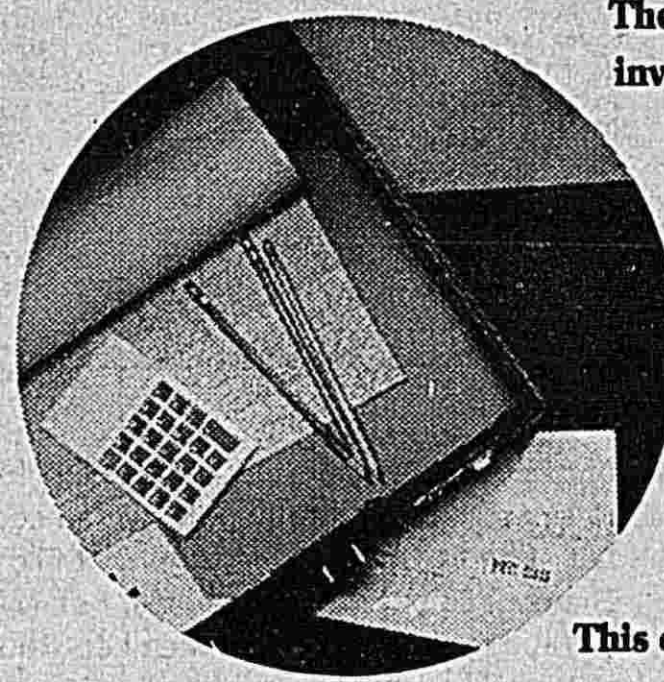

Mundelein completed a winless NSC season with a 62-48 loss to Lake Forest. Kyle McCarthy led the way with 16 points.

Newly crowned NWSC champ Round Lake (14-10 overall) was thrashed by Cary-Grove 68-49. John Stockwell made nine three-pointers for 27 points, but the next highest was Mike Allen with 11.

Grayslake (6-19) was thwarted 61-38 by Crystal Lake South. Brian Witt had 16 for the Rams.

Grant and Lake Forest clash in the first round sectional game Feb. 28 at Lake Forest.
